New Wine in Old Bottles
Crime's New Partner
When Harding Has Music
His Blood—His Child

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

It is said that a rich man in Chicago has bought certain glands, or a gland, from another human being, and had those glands transplanted to his own body to increase physical vigor.

That is strange, new, to take from your fellow man a supply of energy that you lack.

What science does now, superstition used to do. Men in the past have drunk the blood of young children to keep alive departing vigor. And all nations at various times, have sacrificed young children to an imaginary God, supposed to be fond of that kind of tribute.

To see women clinging desperately to youth is pitiful, but you understand it. Women rely on men's attention, and men desire youth.

But for an intelligent male adult to rob the body of another in order to plant in his own body more trouble, more of the turmoil that disturbs contemplation and make life a nuisance, is doubly strange and trebly pitiful.

Crime and whiskey have gone hand in hand in the United States since Jefferson's day. Now drugs replace whiskey in the partnership with crime.

Dr. Squire, medical head of the great Sing Sing prison, says that new convicts show among drug victims 41 per cent.

Whiskey, eventually, destroys the moral sense after first destroying self-respect. Drugs destroy both SWIFTLY.

President Harding sees as many Americans as care to visit him, shakes hands with them, gives each a pleasant, welcoming smile from under his bushy eyebrows. Dr. Work, Postmaster-General, says: "The President shakes hands with forty per minute if there is no music playing, and with more if there is music."

There's a suggestion for employers of labor and manufacturers of talking machines.

Ten thousand years ago rulers, making war, anxious to get results, knew enough to give their soldiers music, fancy uniforms and the right to loot. The way to make work successful is to make it attractive.

Our kings of industry have not yet even learned to combine music with heavy work to make it lighter.

To make INDUSTRY ATTRACTIVE is the next great problem. Once achieved, that will do more than all the laws combined to make this a cheerful world.

The writer, among other valuable domestic colleagues, includes Margaret and Ellen, sisters, that work in the kitchen. Before they start the cooking they set John McCormack to singing something sad and powerful about Ireland. While they are working he is singing. The results are admirable.

What you can't prove otherwise the microscope and chemistry will prove for you. Mr. Campbell of Los Angeles, charged with failure to support a ten-months-old girl, said, "It is not my child, at least I have no proof that it is mine."

A scientist tested the blood of the man and of the ten-months-old baby, compared the two fluids, corpuscles—red and white—and announced positively that that particular infant was the child of that particular man. The man accepted the verdict and agreed to support the child.

Nature is wonderful and very deep, as the Eastenimmer kids read at the edge of the Grand Canyon. You can identify a cow by its nose print, a man by his finger prints, and a little child by the blood resemblance to the father. They had to rely on mere resemblance in old days.

The blood test would cause much trouble were it not for the fact that women are so much better than men.

President Lowell of Harvard tells graduates to "think clearly, not as the crowd does, but think for themselves."

Excellent advice, but not one in ten thousand can follow it. And thinking for themselves is harder for college men than other men, because during college years young minds are pressed into a mold. It takes a strong mind to break the mold and choose its own shape.

Lincoln was "thinking for himself" when he said, "If slavery is not wrong, nothing is wrong." Such thinking for yourself develops in the solitude of the country more than in the crowd of the university.

In various cities drinking fountains are installed "to make horses happy in hot weather."

The way to prove that you sympathize with suffering animals is not to establish drinking fountains, but to replace your horses with motor trucks. The motor truck has done more for suffering horses than all kind-hearted societies and individuals combined.

State Labor Commissioner Opens Probe Into the New Hampshire Textile Dispute

By C. O. POWER.

The campaign of the Boston American for a speedy and satisfactory settlement of the textile strikes in New Hampshire is beginning to bear fruit.

Today the State, through its labor commissioner, John S. B. Davis, made a demand upon both parties to the strike to give their reasons for refusing to submit their differences to arbitration.

In making this formal inquiry Commissioner Davis declares that his next step, taken under authority of statute law, will be a rigid investigation, to be followed by a report placing the blame for the existing labor difficulty and the responsibility for a continued cessation of industry.

The labor commissioner's inquiry is addressed to the agents of the Amoskeag and Stark mills in Manchester, the Nashua and Jackson mills in Nashua, the Cocheco department of the Pacific mills in Dover, the Somersworth Manufacturing Company, the Great Falls Bleachery in Somersworth, the textile mills in Newmarket, Exeter and Suncook and to the secretaries in each of the textile strike centres.

STRIKE ON 19 WEEKS.

For nineteen weeks the operatives have been making a stubborn but peaceful resistance to the orders of the Amoskeag and other mill officials, which would compel them to lengthen their week of toil from forty-eight to fifty-four hours; to increase the measure of their daily production from 10 to 20 per cent, and to accept a general cut in wages of 20 per cent.

Slowly, but surely, it is now evident, the Boston American has been arousing public opinion so that, at last, it has made itself felt in the State House.

More proof of this was given when ex-Governor John H. Bartlett, a few days ago, emphasized the truth relative to the strike situation in New Hampshire, as pictured in the daily articles that for more than a week have been appearing in this newspaper.

GOVERNOR URGES PEACE.

Today ex-Governor Robert P. Bass adds his voice and influence to the demand for an honorable settlement of the strike in an eloquent appeal for the square deal for the community, the workers and the investors. And so the wave of public opinion grows from day to day.

"The textile strikes in New Hampshire should have been settled long ago," said ex-Governor Robert Perkins Bass of that State to the representative of the Boston American.

"I am not sure upon what terms they should have been settled, but I am sure they should not have been allowed to drag on as they have.

"Furthermore, I am not sure that it was not possible to have avoided or obviated the trouble altogether. One fact should be apparent to everybody and that is that the strike should end as soon as possible."

JEALOUSY BLAMED IN ARREST

Friends Say Girl Art Student Is Victim of a Married Woman's "Frame-Up"

Friends of Alice Bergoshian, nineteen-year-old Chelsea art student, are incensed at what they term a cruel injustice done this girl, who was arrested on the charge of being an expert burglaress, who carried a skeleton key in her dainty French heels and fearlessly pillaged Boston homes by night.

They charge that this girl was first deceived by a married man into receiving his attentions on the pretension that he was single, then made the victim of a jealous married woman, who sought to put her in prison for a long term of years.

Miss Bergoshian was arrested in company with Roy Russell, automobile dealer of No. 291 Northampton street.

The girl accused of usurping the love of a married man has nothing of the flapper about her. She is slim, demure, intelligent and quiet spoken.

Miss Bergoshian was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Lulu Stringham, at No. 11 Gainsboro street, Back Bay, who charged her with stealing a watch.

GLAD IT OCCURRED.

The arrest of Alice disclosed that Russell, with whom she had visited the Stringham apartment, was married. As a climax, Mr. Russell's wife, Mrs. Emily Russell of No. 144 Heath street, Roxbury, had him arrested on a non-support charge and is preparing to bring suit for divorce in which she will name the young art student.

Russell appeared in the Roxbury Court today to answer a charge of neglecting to support his wife and child. The case was continued until June 28, on his agreeing in the meantime to pay $10 toward the support of his wife.

Miss Bergoshian said:

"It's unfortunate that there should be scandal, but in a way I'm glad that this has occurred, for Mrs. Stringham's attempted frame-up of me may be a boomerang.

"Mrs. Russell's divorce case may not be the only action of its kind taken.

"I am sorry for Mrs. Russell. I never met her. I never knew of her existence until recently. I was sorry to learn that Roy had deceived me by giving me to understand he was single. I would never have associated with him had I known he was married.

"As it is, I am not ashamed of my association with him, for it was perfectly platonic. The gay parties that Mrs. Stringham mentions are parties of her imagination.

"I would like to ask Mrs. Stringham why she moved from the Arena Chambers in Back Bay? Was it because of other gay parties held in her apartment?

"It is absurd. My family will bear me out when I say that except on one occasion—and that is the night I was arrested on the larceny charge

DEFEAT MOVE TO RUSH BONUS VOTE

By J. BART CAMPBELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, June 20.—By a vote of 51 to 22 the Senate today rejected a motion by Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts, to take up the soldiers' bonus bill immediately, displacing the tariff.

The record vote was obtained on a motion by Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, to lay Walsh's motion on the table.

Forty-three Republicans and eight Democrats voted for Watson's motion. Twenty Democrats and two Republicans voted against it.

Senator Walsh, in denouncing the Republican majority for agreeing to the postponement of the bonus until after the passage of the tariff, said it was his purpose to force a record vote of the real friends and foes of the bonus.

Chairman McCumber of the Senate Finance Committee, who opposed Walsh's move, charged the Democrats were "playing politics" with both the bonus and tariff.

AMERICAN GIVES BEACH TRIPS FOR MOTHERS AND CHILDREN

NANTASKET OUTINGS RESUMED

tasket Beach, the Queen of America's watering places.

The war interfered with the annual free outing for mothers and kids. Now, to make up for lost time, The American will give the outing not only once, as in previous years, but five times.

Two trips a day will be made each day the first five days of next week.

The trips will be made in the palatial ships of the Nantasket Beach Steamship Company. Trips will be made Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

The two boats will leave each morning and return each afternoon, late enough to give the voyagers ample time to enjoy a swim, take in the sights and rides at Paragon Park and otherwise enjoy the hundred and one delights of Nantasket.

Each ship has a capacity of 1,500 people. That means that the American will take 2,000 mothers and children out each day of the five-day period. In all, 15,000 mothers and children will have the opportunity to go to Nantasket Beach on the Boston American.

It is necessary for each reader who wishes to take the trip to have three of these coupons, which are to be printed each day, one a day, in the Boston American. The first coupon will be printed tomorrow. There will be another one Thursday. A third Friday.

If you get these first three coupons (and remember, the coupons must be dated consecutively) you will be entitled to take the first trip next Monday, on either of the two boats that sail.

Are you going to be one of the fortunate 15,000?

All that is required is that you present these three coupons, consecutively dated, with ten cents, and you get a ticket.

No child more than fifteen years of age is eligible to take the trip.

AMERICAN TO GIVE NANTASKET TRIPS

Here is a joyous scene from one of the Last Boston American trips to Nantasket for mothers and and children, showing the merry crowd on the Miles Standish just pulling away from Rowe's Wharf. These delightful trips were interrupted by the World War, but are now to be resumed, beginning next Monday. Five different outings will be given, affording an opportunity for 15,000 mothers and little ones to escape the crowded city for a day at the beach. In circle, General Manager Frederic L. Lane, of the Nantasket Steamship Company.

LINER FORCED TO PUT IN AT HALIFAX

The new Cunard liner Samaria is in trouble at sea and the passengers, who include several prominent Bostonians, will be landed at Halifax and forced to finish by rail journeys started in Liverpool or Queenstown last week, according to reports received here today.

Another report said the liner had turned back for Liverpool.

Trouble is said to be in the liner's engine room.

Mrs. Gaston.

While no "SOS" calls have been flashed, officials at the Cunard office today said the vessel was limping badly. When Halifax would be reached was not known here.

The Samaria was due in Boston Thursday night. She has aboard 62 saloon passengers, 159 second-class and 216 steerage passengers.

Dr. Cushing.

Among saloon passengers are: Dr. Harvey Cushing, head of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, and Mrs. Cushing; Miss Margaret Anthony and Miss A. E. Anthony, Hotel Ludlow Back Bay; Mrs. Morgan Rotch, Hotel Ludlow; Mrs. William A. Gaston and her daughter Ruth; Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Bush, Brookline; Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Goodwin.

The Samaria's third trip since she was put into operation some months ago.

Self-Expression Is Causing Woe, Says Dr. Conrad

A gloomy picture of society was drawn by Dr. A. Z. Conrad, honorary president of the Florence Crittenton League of Compassion, at a moral welfare conference in the Twentieth Century Club today.

"Self-expressionism. That's what's wrong with the world today," Dr. Conrad said. "Too much self - expressionism. Every conceivable kind of deviltry is being done in the name of self-expression. For most people self-expressionism simply means they are sliding to ruin.

"The trouble with the world today is not with the sediment at the bottom of society, but with the scum at the top.

"Whether we admit it or not, the tendency today is downward — right straight downward. We've got to do something to stop it, or go down to ruin with it."

WOMAN LEADS HER RIVAL FOR SENATE

St. Paul, Minn., June 20 (By the Associated Press).—Additional returns today from Monday's primary election in Minnesota strengthened the lead established by Senator Frank B. Kellogg, Governor J. A. O. Preus and other candidates endorsed by the Republican State Convention.

Mrs. Annie Dickey Olesen, Democratic State Convention choice for the United States senatorial nomination, crept into the lead again as new returns came in, and when 887 precincts had reported her vote was 4,985 to the 3,892 polled by her nearest opponent, Thomas J. Meighen.

SUSPECT TWO WERE KILLED BY DOCTOR

Washington, Ga., June 20.—Plans were made to exhume the bodies of Charles W. Willbanks and the first wife of Dr. J. G. Saggus to determine the cause of their deaths.

This announcement was made after the arrest of Dr. Saggus, who was lodged in jail here on charges of poisoning the former Mrs. Saggus and Willbanks, a former neighbor and husband of the present Mrs. Saggus.

Dr. Saggus emphatically denied the charges and attributed them to a "frame-up" born of jealousy. His denial was substantiated by Mrs. Saggus but with the verdict of the coroner's jury that the physician was guilty of a double murder in their hands, officials prepared for the postmortem examination.

In denying the charges, Dr. Saggus asserted that his first wife died last November of neuralgia of the heart, and that Willbanks died in February after an extended siege of asthma. He had given Willbanks hypodermic injections to relieve his suffering, Dr. Saggus asserted.

The present Mrs. Saggus stated that she believed her husband was the victim of a conspiracy of enemies.

Testifying at the coroner's inquest, instigated by relatives and friends of Willbanks and the former Mrs. Saggus, physicians said there were symptoms that both were poisoned, but they could not be sure of the cause of their deaths.

Letters designed to show improper relations between Dr. Saggus and his present wife before the death of Willbanks were introduced at the hearing. Dr. Saggus carried $5,000 insurance on the life of his first wife, witnesses testified.

GOVERNOR BASS DEMANDS MILL STRIKE PROBE

Few men in this country are favored with a better outlook on the important affairs of the world than the comparatively young and progressive former Governor of New Hampshire.

He travels extensively, is a deep student of political and economic questions confronting the United States and foreign countries, keeps his mind vigorous and keen by feeding it with the best of current literature and has a big fund of valuable information and experience, gained as a State legislator and Chief Executive, upon which to make drafts as occasion may require.

MR. BASS' BELIEF.

From the windows of his study in his beautiful home, in the hills of Peterboro, N. H., the scenic outlook is interesting and pleasing at all seasons, but it is especially alluring and beautiful at this time. It is conducive to straight thinking and mental serenity.

In the distance are the greenest of the green hills of the White Mountains range. From the Bass estate stretches a rich carpet of verdure, rolling and undulating, miles long and wide and every prospect pleases.

Small wonder that, under such inspiration, Mr. Bass, as he prefers to be called, talked interestingly and with positive sincerity about the industrial troubles of his State.

"I have no desire to play the role of the oracle and lay down the terms upon which the strike, in Manchester, for instance, could have been settled. Not being the spokesman for the operatives nor privileged with the confidence of the operators, I cannot say what terms would have been mutually satisfactory to those parties.

ENTITLED TO BOTH SIDES.

"But what I do say is that that strike should have been settled long ago. What I do say is that had there been more fact finding in the beginning or the early stages of the trouble there would be less fault finding now. There are, of course, as usual, two sides to this story. The strikers have told their side, but the Amoskeag has not given its version to the public.

"And the public is entitled to it. This is more than a dispute about wages and hours between the mill operatives and the mill operators. The community of Manchester is a party to it, the community of New Hampshire has a vital interest in it, and the community of all New England is seriously affected by it.

"The day has passed when one principal party to an industrial crisis can ignore the rights of a community. The Amoskeag may have enough stock in warehouses to meet all demands for months to come, it might even be able to close down and stop production for a long period, thereby utterly defeating and routing the striking employes, but, to my way of thinking, that would not be a worth-while victory for Amoskeag.

CONSIDERS TWO POINTS.

"It would, on the contrary, as I see it, be the very worst thing that could happen to Amoskeag. In thus crushing the strikers the Manchester community would be most seriously injured and I firmly believe it would arouse the people of the State to favor drastic means to prevent repetitions of such a thing.

"As I view it there are two points that call for the most consideration. There is the community factor and the binding agreement factor of the settlement. I am not in favor of hasty, ill-considered action, but I do believe there is imperative need of arriving at a full and impartial understanding with the least possible delay.

"We do not know all the facts—that is, the people of the State do not know them. They should. They have the best right to know them. Therefore, the first thing should be fact finding. Just how that should be done ought not to be difficult.

"Whether it shall be by a board, made up of representatives of the operators, the operatives and the community, whether it shall be a board of level-headed, common-sense men with the best interest of all parties at heart, does not matter very much so long as we get all the essential facts.

"The strikers have submitted what they say are the facts on their side of the case and have agreed to accept the terms of compromise recommended by State Labor Commissioner Davis as a base from which to proceed to a settlement. The Amoskeag Company refuses to submit facts and there seems to be no way of securing them without the co-operation of the officials in charge of Amoskeag affairs.

"SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY."

"To such an attitude as that I take exception. I have talked with Manchester business men and they view it as I do. I have not hesitated to tell Amoskeag officials that they are pursuing a very short-sighted policy and that, in my opinion, if they persist in it, they will regret it.

"If they cannot stand against the Southern competition they talk about, they should give the public the facts. They should make out a case on that feature. If, for other reasons, or any reason, they must retrench on wages and extend on hours of labor, they should not hesitate to make public the compelling reasons.

"The people of New Hampshire are fair-minded and, in their hearts, cherish a strong love of justice and helpfulness. They want to see their industries prosper. They want to see the investors in their industries receive generous returns on their investments. If they can have all the facts, free from confusing side issues, and, if facts show the necessity of new adjustments to successfully meet competition or overcome obstacles to prosperous business, then the people can be relied upon to help the industries to put up a winning fight in crises.

"They want the industries to prosper, yes, and in generous measure. But, understand me, they do not mean by that big dividends for stockholders and low wages and long hours for the workers. Not a bit of it. They want the industries to prosper splendidly so that all may share in the prosperity; good dividends for the stockholders and, by all means, good wages for the workers and good working conditions. The permanency of prosperity depends upon such an arrangement.

URGES GUARANTEES.

"I believe in attracting capital to this State for investment in business and industries. I do not believe serious labor squabbles help in that direction. For that reason every effort should be made to prevent industrial troubles from reaching the serious point.

"Therefore, as I view it, there should be binding agreements when settlements are made, good guarantees exchanged by both sides, mutual understandings of processes of solution of troubles, to be quickly invoked as the troubles arise, by which both parties will abide.

"There is nothing good about this strike on the Amoskeag side so far as it has been exposed to the public view. It has seemed short-sighted to me and, as I said before, I have said as much to the mill officials. There is not the slightest bias in my attitude. If the company cannot afford to maintain the old conditions of wages and labor, if it is too poor, there are other ways to prove it than by buying out its only competitor in Manchester and increasing dividends.

STRIKES UNSATISFACTORY.

"Strikes are a most unsatisfactory means to an end. They cause injury and suffering to too many innocent people. They should not be forced upon employes by grasping employers nor thrust upon a community by an ill-advised labor leader. We are reaching the point when, in my opinion, the national government will have to play a stronger part in the consideration of industrial troubles. State boards of conciliation and arbitration do not seem to be effective in many instances.

"National authority, equipped with full power to find all the facts, to give their findings fullest publicity to make such recommendations as may be necessary, may have to be the next step, if no better or more friendly way can be found to cut short coal strikes and steel strikes and even an Amoskeag strike. It may not be necessary to give mandatory power of settlement to such a body. If the blame be fairly and fearlessly placed through wide and obligatory publicity, public opinion would do most effective. Why, if the public knew what they should know about the causes of the coal strike, it would come to a quick termination.

"I do not know what else I can say that would be interesting as having a bearing upon the Amoskeag strike, but just let me repeat that no corporation or company can afford to treat a community with impunity."

"Going to take an interest in politics, Governor?" I asked him.

FAVORS SQUARE DEAL.

"Not in the sense of being a candidate for public office," he replied. "I have not been particularly active in political affairs for ten years, but I think I will be a little more so from now on. I think it is time we had more independent and progressive men in the New Hampshire Legislature. I have talked with some of my friends and they seem to feel the same as I do about it. So, it is quite likely we may take a hand in politics this Fall. There are some reforms the State is sadly in need of."

All of which may have an ominous sound to the smug Republican leaders, for this positive young man was elevated from the State Senate to the Governor's office in 1910, against the strenuous opposition of the old State machine. He is a Harvard man, served in both branches of the New Hampshire Legislature, fought the domination of the Boston & Maine Railroad politicians and lobbyists, and for taxation reforms, for direct primaries and other progressive measures.

There can be no mistaking the fact that he is intensely interested in having the Amoskeag strike settled on a square-deal basis.

(To Be Continued in Tomorrow's Boston American.)

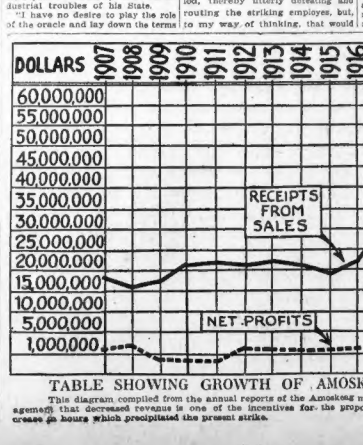

TABLE SHOWING GROWTH OF AMOSKEAG'S PROFITS

This diagram compiled from the annual reports of the Amoskeag mills, refutes the claim of the management that decreased revenue is one of the incentives for the proposed reduction in wages and increase in hours which precipitated the present strike.

Millionaire Agreed to Operation on Assurance of "Rejuvenated" Patient

Chicago, June 20.—At least a dozen rich and prominent business men have sought the "fountain of youth" under the scalpel of Dr. Victor D. Lespinasse, it was learned today.

These men, like Harold F. McCormick, Harvester magnate, were guaranteed absolute secrecy and the protection of a "leak-proof" staff. Only in the case of Mr. McCormick did news of the operation become public.

Mr. McCormick is said to have consented to the operation only after having been shown absolute proof of its efficiency and personal assurance from at least one of the gland patients that it had been a success.

Several of the other men are said to be socially and financially prominent here. Others are said to be in New York and California.

In each instance the same silent, mysterious nurse is said to have been the only assistant in whom the operator placed absolute trust.

SURPRISES SURGEONS.

An indication of how surprising the operation has proven to surgeons throughout the country came when Dr. Lespinasse was asked to appear before the American Institute of Homeopathy convention at the Drake Hotel. The formal invitation was forwarded to him by Dr. Roy Upham of Brooklyn, president of the institute.

Never, physicians say, has any case attracted such attention throughout the world.

Dr. Lespinasse is said to have labored in secret for many years, to perfect the technique of the operation, using, as in the case of Mr. McCormick, human subjects.

He is said to have spent thousands of dollars and to have dispatched his agents to scour the country for suitable subjects. Among those they found was the "man from West Madison street" used in the McCormick operation.

WAVES TO SUPPORTERS.

This man was reported to have been spirited out of the hospital today with his "something less than $500" of the McCormick fortune, pledged to secrecy.

Dr. Lespinasse's latest statement regarding his millionaire patient reads:

"Harold F. McCormick is in excellent spirits and his condition, surgically, is all that could be desired."

The "excellent spirits" portion of the official bulletin was proved later when Mr. McCormick appeared at his window in the Wesley Hospital and smiled and waved his hand to reporters below.

Perhaps his good spirits were due in some measure to the prospect that he will be out of the hospital in a day or two and shortly will sail for Europe.

He is reported to have engaged to sail Saturday.

This report was apparently substantiated by Mme. Gianna Walska, twenty-nine-year-old Polish beauty, now in Paris, who admitted having received a musical cablegram from Mme. Walska in Paris with marriage to follow. She has just received a divorce from Alexander Smith Cochran.

'Flapperitis' Making Physical Wrecks of City Youths

Chicago, June 20.—"Flapperitis" is bringing about inefficient, sleep-starved and undernourished physical wrecks among modern city youths, Dr. Clarence Bartlett, president of the Pennsylvania State Homeopathic Society, said in an address before the American Institute of Homeopathy convention.

"On all sides we hear comments of the precocity of the youth of the present day," he declared.

"Their flaunting of authority, their hours, their general habits as to hygiene are all made subjects of comment, and really it is the parents who are to blame."

SAY JEALOUSY CAUSED ARREST

—I have never stayed away from home overnight in my life.

"Roy was a friend of Mr. Stringham. Once or twice, out of politeness and with the permission of Mr. Stringham, he went out with Mrs. Stringham. Lulu wanted him to become interested in her, and he didn't. Lulu was angry because Roy was interested in me. She was jealous. That's why she has framed me in this way.

"I am not heartbroken over what I learned about Roy. I liked him because he treated me nicely and was always a gentleman. Our relations at all times were eminently proper."

Mr. Russell was also arrested two years ago in Brooklyn, N. Y., on a similar complaint and was afterwards placed on probation and ordered to support his wife and two children, it is alleged.

Miss Bergoshian's parents live at No. 5 Fitch street, Chelsea, but the girl has been living at various Back Bay addresses. She was formerly a student at the Normal Art School. She was arrested at the apartment of Mrs. Bertha Virgin, suite 2, No. 204 Northampton street, and it was here that the Roxbury police found Mr. Russell after his wife had sworn out a warrant for his arrest.

According to Mrs. Stringham, for months past Miss Bergoshian and Mr. Russell had been meeting in her apartment. They had the run of the whole house, she said.

PUT PAIR OUT.

Mrs. Stringham said she was divorced or living apart from her wife." Mrs. Stringham said, that when I learned that he had a wife and two children and was supposed to be living with them, I put him and the girl out. Then I told Mrs. Russell."

When Miss Bergoshian was arrested after Mrs. Stringham had charged her with stealing a watch and some money from the apartment, Mr. Russell went to the police station and secured her release on bail. It was then that Mrs. Russell secured the warrant for her husband and had him arrested.

"Alice told me frankly that she knew Mr. Russell was married but that she was crazy about him," said Mrs. Stringham.

The girl is said to have been a well known figure in gay Back Bay circles and a prominent participant in parties staged by art students and others in that neighborhood.

SENATOR HALE WINNER BY 20,000 IN MAINE

Portland, Me., June 20.—Senator Frederick Hale, Republican, without making a personal campaign, won an easy victory in the State primaries yesterday. The vote cast for him was larger than the total for his two opponents, former Congressman Frank E. Guernsey and former State Senator Howard Davies. His plurality over Guernsey was nearly 20,000. Davies ran a poor third.

In another three-cornered contest Governor Percival P. Baxter, Republican, was nominated for a second term by a plurality of 25,000 over John F. Deering, who Leon R. Fickett, Democrat, Unified

RICH WOMAN FIGHTS POLICE OVER DOG

New Bedford, June 20.—When Miss Elsie Swift, New Bedford's wealthiest woman, refused to appear in district court to tell why she had refused to tie up her collie dog when ordered to do so, police today Jimmied their way into her mansion at No. 189 Orchard street.

Servants had refused to admit them.

They came upon Miss Swift partly disrobed and demanded that she respect the court summons which had been served on her.

Police say she flew into a rage, used profane language and attacked Inspector Bolton.

She was overpowered. A maid also, who police say attacked Chief of Police Doherty, was subdued.

Then, they say, Miss Swift promised to appear if given time to dress.

ALIENISTS ON TRIAL.

In district court she refused to step into the docket.

"Do or I'll have you locked up," said Judge Frank A. Milliken.

She obeyed.

"It's stupid," she said, "that I should. You are persecuting me for what you say my dog did. I tried my dog and found him not guilty of the charge you placed against him. That ends the case."

"With a fine of $10," said Judge Milliken, and added, "as we don't expect to collect it from the dog, you better pay it."

Miss Swift paid and went home followed by two alienists Judge Milliken requested to follow and study her movements.

"BRAVO" IS CAUTIOUS.

"Bravo" is the name of Miss Swift's collie, but police say that he was anything but that when they entered the Swift home, scooting up the stairs to the attic and leaving his mistress to battle the law alone.

Neighbors complained that the dog was annoying passersby which caused police to summon Miss Swift into court. She refused to obey the summons, so police were asked to go out and get her, which they did after Chief Doherty jimmied through two doors, servants having bolted every entrance in the big house.

His diplomatic service was ended in 1917, when this country entered the war.

At his bedside when he died was his wife, who was Mrs. Anne Weighman Walker of Chicago, who was reported to be the richest woman in the world. He married her fourteen years ago. For some time they have made their home in Southern France.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

BLACK HAND WARNING FOR LOWELL MAYOR

Lowell, June 20.—Mayor George H. Brown received a black hand letter, in which the writer warned him and Chief of Police Thomas R. Atkinson to be prepared for death. "Remember you are partly to blame for Taffaras," the letter read. Taffaras is a police officer who was recently permitted to resign after Fahey had been made against him that he failed to "ring in" on his beat, and failed to attend a big fire.

Flapper Drives the Hook'n'ladder, but Fire Turns Out to Be a Bloomer

Three Sea-Going Percherons, Champin' and a Rearin', Give Her a Right Smart, Jolly Time

By THE FLAPPER.

There was I, my deahs, on the tip-top of the gosh-durned scaling ladder, dizzier than I've been since the time I stood up in the rolly-coaster.

And there, many and many kilometres beneath me, was Dan Baker, Boston Fire Department drill master.

"Leave go," he ordered in an awful voice.

"Now, listen here, Dan," I hollered back. "Let's have our little jokes after I get down on the safe ground. First thing you know I'll be doing what you say an' ——"

"LEAVE GO!"

I knew then that he meant it, so I snapped the hook fastened on my belt to the iron loop of the ladder and left go.

AND NOTHING HAPPENED.

Nothing happened. I swayed up on the ladder, caught my breath again and qualified in the first test to be a fireman, by gosh.

The next test was something else again. The jakes ran me over to Captain Fred F. Leary's tea party and told me to try my hand with the hoses. Somebody rang a gong and out galumphed Charlie, Baby and Silk Hat Harry, three huge seagoing ponies.

If you've never held three rawboned eatin' fire babies who are rearin' an' tearin' to go, you don't know what a jolly time is. That's what your little friend the Flip-Flap had to do to be a fireman.

While I was parking on the driver's seat, pulling back on the reins with all my 120 pounds (net), a sure-enough gong boomed out in the fire-house, and off we went.

SHE STARTS 'EM OUT.

I hafta admit that starting out for the fire wasn't my own hunch. It was really suggested by Baby and Charlie and Silk Hat Harry, who would rather eat fire than oats.

As hook'n ladder number three streaked out of the fire-house, a complete set of jakes jumped aboard. Tom Barrett, the reglar driver, clambered alongside me and helped me lean back on the reins.

Dang, dang, dang!—it was very exciting. Kids chased after us, five ran for cover and excited consuman called their infants into the house. But the fire, when we got to it, was pretty much of a bloomer.

It was Bo 1624, Harrison avenue and Genesee street, South End.

Handsome Ted and Nifty Ned dashed into a smoking cellar. I expected them to bring out the lovely maiden, but instead they brought out a tin can.

JUST A STILL EXPLODED.

"Only another still exploded," mutt tered Pete. "It ain't a fireman any more. I'm nothin' but a repair man for a lota boot-leggers."

On the way back to the house I asked Tom Barrett if that was the best fire he could show me.

"Should a been along yesterday," he said. "Had a palapazaza. Man trapped up in a burning building. Standing on a fifth floor ledge. The flames were licking his feet . . . We couldn't get to him."

"What'd you do?" I asked, breathlessly.

"We threw him a rope," said Tom.

"What'd he do?" I asked. "Hurry up or he'll be burned to a crisp."

Tom pulled the horses up in front of the fire-house.

"Whoa," he said. "Oh, the man. The crazy dumbbell caught ahold of the end of the rope and jumped. Whoa, Harry."

AUTO FRACTURES SKULL OF WELLESLEY YOUTH

Henry Fahey, twenty years old, of House street, Wellesley, sustained a fractured skull today when he was struck by an auto owned by Wallace Dunlap, New York, and driven by Dr. J. L. Cohen, Wyandotte, Mich., near the corner of Washington street and Glen Road, Newton Lower Falls.

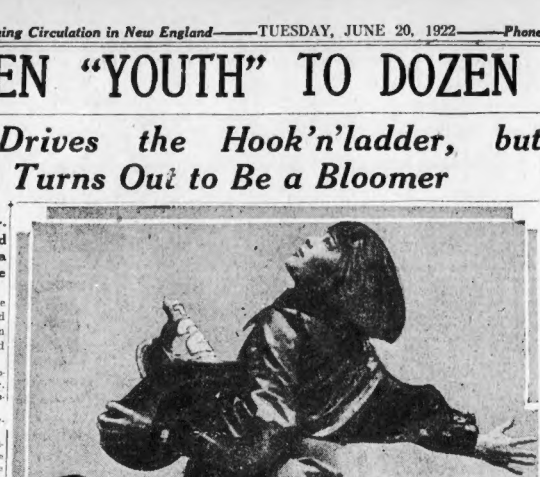
Fahey was working on his motorcycle, in the middle of Washington street when the auto, going west, hit him. It is said that the tail light of the cycle was not working.

Fahey was taken to the Newton Hospital in the Newton police ambulance. His name is on the danger list. He is the son of Michael Fahey, for years an engineer at Wellesley College. Young Fahey was a graduate of Wellesley High School. In the Dunlap car were two women and another man.

QUEBEC RESIDENTS FLEE FROM FLOOD IN BOATS

Sherbrooke, Que., June 20.—Fed by continuous heavy rains of the last few days, the Chaudiere River has overflowed its banks, flooding most of the Chaudiere Valley. The inhabitants of the villages of St. Mary, Beauceville and St. Joseph were forced to escape in boats to higher ground when the waters inundated their homes.

Travelers to Valley Junction were met at the railroad station in boats and rowed to the hotel, as many of the streets are flooded.



"PLAY AWAY 32!"

If this was an easy as it looks it would be duck soup. But it ain't. You dassent hang on with your hands. This is the first of the fireman tests. They get harder as you go along. Now don't you wanta be a dentist or som'thin' easy?

LORAYNE GIRL SEEKS REVENGE ON BIGAMIST

"Joe Grafton pursued me before I married him. Now I'm going to do the pursuing, after he deserted me," declared Paulette Lorayne Grafton, former Follies show girl, at her home in Malden.

Paulette, one of the three wives of Joseph Donald Grafton, scion of wealthy Pittsburgh family, added:

"Peggy Davis, another one of the unfortunate trio who got mixed up with this Pittsburgh stogie, is going to help me look for Grafton. There's nothing sentimental about our search. If either of us ever find him it'll cost him heavily. A wife has rights, even if her husband is a bigamist.

"The papers say that Joe had three wives. They called him a love pirate. He isn't a pirate. He's just a wholesaler. I'll bet by this time there's a few more Mrs. Graftons spread around the country.

"If there are, I wish they'd write to me. I'd like to get all the 'gals' there is. Maybe we could form a club and call it the Wives of Joe Grafton."

GIRL SWALLOWS POISON, DIVES OUT WINDOW

Miss Mary Minard, fifteen-year-old Dorchester girl, hurriedly gulping down the contents of a bottle of chloroform liniment, fled down the hallway of a lodging house at No. 521 Massachusetts avenue, South End, and plunged through a window to the roof of the ell below, when she saw policemen coming into the house to arrest her.

She had been missing from her home at No. 29 Edwin street, Dorchester, for several weeks. Her father, Wendell Minard, learned where she was living and notified the police.

The girl did not stop to raise the window and was badly cut by the glass and was unconscious when picked up in the back yard. She was taken to the City Hospital. Physicians there say she will probably recover.

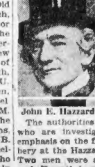
According to Mrs. C. T. Yates, proprietor of the lodging house, the girl came there a few days ago. She told Mrs. Yates that her name was Mary Terrow.

Mrs. Yates checked up on the place where the girl said she worked and found that she was not known there. Later she learned her real name and communicated with the girl's parents.

ACTOR HIRES GUARD IN FEAR OF BLACKMAILERS

New York, June 21.—The two children of John E. Hazzard, musical comedy star, were closely guarded today in the actor's home at Great Neck, L. I., following the receipt Sunday by Hazzard of a letter which read:

"Your children are going to be kidnaped no matter how long it takes. This is my revenge."



John E. Hazzard

The authorities of Nassau County who are investigating place much emphasis on the frustration of a robbery at the Hazzard place last April. Two men were arrested. One, Joseph Ferrati, is still in Mineola Jail awaiting trial.

MALDEN FIRMS SUFFER FROM FLOOD

Thousands of dollars' damage was done today by floods that followed the tropical downpour last night.

Malden's business district was flooded. East Weymouth residents were kept on the alert all night, ready to flee if the concrete dam at Whitman Pond gave way under the tremendous pressure of flood waters.

In the Salmon Falls River valley of New Hampshire the river swept away the huge dam near East Rochester and piled up its waters at the Milton dam, which, at latest reports, was threatening to collapse.

In Malden the situation is due to the rise of the Spot Pond Brook, which burst the culvert that carries the water under Malden square.

STOCKS DAMAGED.

The basement of virtually every store in the strip, half a mile wide and extending from Malden court-house to Ferry street, near the Boston and Maine tracks, contained from six inches to three feet of water.

Most of the storekeepers in that section worked furiously all night long to save their stocks, although in some instances their efforts proved futile and the goods were ruined.

Two Summer cottages in Weymouth, situated near the peak of a 40-foot cliff were undermined by the waters. The houses slid over the embankment and tumbled onto Great Hill Beach below.

A landslide near the Medford Hillside station, caused by heavy rains, sent tons of dirt and rocks down onto the main tracks of the southern division of the Boston & Maine railroad.

TRAINS NEAR WRECK.

Walter Ballou of Medford witnessed the slide, notified the police, and telephoned officials of the railroad.

Officers arrived with lanterns just in time to flag an outward bound Montreal express, a train for Vermont, an in-bound Lowell express and a freight train. Had it not been for Malden's prompt action all would have been piled up by the mass of tumbled earth.

Joseph Whalan, twenty-three years old, of Lynn, was drowned when his automobile struck a washed out section of the road in Crawford Neich, N. H. His wife and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin, also of Lynn, escaped.

The raging currents in the Merrimack River this morning threw logs against the boom at Martin's Ferry with such force that it broke, allowing hundreds of logs to rush down the stream to the Amoskeag Dam, there to go over the falls to the rapids below. The river at the Amoskeag gate house is about three feet higher than is usual at this time of year.

CLEAN SWEEP AT IRISH POLLS FOR TREATY

Dublin, June 20.—The Irish Constitutionalists made a clean sweep in the Free State general election, defeating the Republicans (Anti-Constitutionalists) in all parts of the country, according to further tabulation of the vote here today.

The returns from Cork show the election of two Constitutionalists.

The Countess Markiewicz, supporter of De Valera and an advocate of war, is reported to have been defeated.

VICTORY FOR TREATY.

Liam Mellowes, who was the chief military aide of "Rory" O'Connor in Galway, was defeated. He ran on the Republican platform. Darrel Figgis Johnson, well known Dublin labor leader, was elected on the Laborite ticket.

Further tabulation of the vote this afternoon increased the strength of the non-Republican forces in the Dail. At latest reports the count stood:

Constitutionalists, forty-four seats; anti-Constitutionalists, twenty-three seats; Independents, nine seats; Laborites, seven seats.

If the Constitutionalists, Independents and Laborites were to form a coalition it would give them tremendous strength in the new Parliament. Four representatives of Trinity College were elected.

Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein and president of the Dail Eireann, was elected in County Cavan. He is one of the main leaders of the Constitutionalists.

The Constitutionalists support the Anglo-Irish Peace Treaty and favor the ratification of the Irish constitution by the Dail Eireann. The Republicans repudiate both.

Republicans Foiled in Raid on Castle

Belfast, June 20.—An attempt to Republican sympathizers to raid and burn Stormont Castle, the seat of the Ulster government, was foiled today by special constables.

Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster, and Lady Craig reside in Stormont Castle. During the attack one of the incendiaries was shot by a constable.

The Sinn Fein prisoners in Belfast are being transferred to a floating prison ship, the Argenta, which was purchased from Americans.

Murder Campaign Is Renewed in Belfast

Belfast, June 20.—The murder campaign continues in South Belfast. The body of a man, aged about thirty, was found today on the bridge near Coraghwood where the Great Northern Railroad branches to Newry. A religious emblem on the body indicated that he was a Catholic.

18,000 ARE IN PERIL IN FLOODED MEXICAN TOWN

San Antonio, Tex., June 20.—Twenty-one thousand acres of Rio Grande Valley land with crops valued at $2,500,000 flooded in Hidalgo County, a fresh rise in the lower stretches of the Rio Grande, while the cloudburst flood of the upper river is nearing its crest at Laredo, 150 miles upstream, summarized the border flood situation today. The fate of 18,000 inhabitants of Piedras Negras, Mexico, across the river from Eagle Pass, isolated since bridge was swept out Sunday night, is causing grave concern. The city is surrounded by water and the food supply is thought to be short.

75 DAYS' SUPPLY OF COAL FOR RAILWAYS

Washington, June 20.—Railroads of the United States had 10,847,000 tons of bituminous coal on June 1, or enough to last seventy-five days, Secretary Hoover announced today. He said a survey of stocks on hand showed that consumption of coal in May averaged approximately 284,000 tons a day of that quantity, 145,000 tons a day was obtained from stocks on hand and exclusive of new coal bought from non-union sources.

HARVARD—B. C. HOLD CLASS DAY EXERCISES

Today is Class Day.

Harvard, Boston College and the New England Conservatory of Music all celebrated the windup of the scholastic year with the usual ceremonies.

At the Cambridge university, oldest in the country, the day formally began at 9 o'clock with services in the chapel for the senior class, when, clad in cap and gown and led by the class marshal, Keith Kane of Newport, R. I., the seniors formed in double file in front of Holworthy Hall and marched around the college yard to the chapel. Arthur Woods of the board of overseers made the address.

The formal class day exercises began at Sanders Theatre at 11. The class, led by the president and officers of the university, marched from the college yard to the theatre. Benjamin Franklin Jones, Jr., delivered the class oration. William Whitman, 3rd, read the class poem and William Ellery Sedgwick the class ode. Howard Elliott, Jr., was class chorister.

BAND CONCERTS BEGIN.

The college yard was to be thrown open to the public at 2 o'clock, when the band concerts began.

At four the seniors were to form for their march to the Stadium, followed by the other classes and the alumni, for the Ivy Oration and the presentation of the class banner to the first-year men.

Just prior to starting on this march the seniors will hold their tree exercises and cheer the buildings in the yard.

Arrangements were made to hold these exercises in Sanders Theatre, and the new lecture hall in case of rain.

This evening the yard will be decorated as usual, and there are to be band concerts from seven to eleven o'clock. The Glee Club was to be heard on the steps of the Widener Library at nine o'clock.

AT BOSTON COLLEGE.

Class Day exercises at Boston College were to take place on University Heights if the weather was fine. Otherwise the parade and other out-of-door features of the observances were to be eliminated and the entire program held indoors.

One of the features planned for today was the presence of two classes of the Alumni Association, 1912 and 1917, each led by its president, Denis J. Dooley in the case of '12 and Joseph Elliot of 1917. These classes were to take part in the parade, which until today has always been a strictly undergraduate affair. The alumni also were to take part in the flag-raising ceremonies.

Francis E. Magennis of Medford won the honor of being selected the Tower orator, the highest honor a B. C. student can attain.

DINNER IN BASEMENT.

At the close of the class day exercises the seniors and their friends will have dinner in the basement of the recitation building. This will be followed by a band concert and the annual seniors' soiree.

The annual reunion and banquet of the New England Conservatory of Music Alumni Association wound up the class day exercises of the Conservatory, held in Jordan Hall. The last will of the class was read by Miss Martha Atwell, vice-president of the class, followed by a burlesque on the recent competition for the Mason and Hamlin piano prize. There were a number of other features.

422 Wellesley Girls Attend Commencement

Four hundred and twenty-two seniors and special students took part in the commencement exercises at Wellesley College today. The ceremonies were held in Houghton Memorial Chapel and hundreds of the relatives and friends of the girl graduates were present.

The commencement procession, headed by Raymond B. Fosdick of New York, Commencement Day speaker, and the members of the college faculty started at 10:30 for the chapel. The exercises were followed by the trustee-alumnae luncheon.

In his address Mr. Fosdick warned the students that mankind is facing a serious problem in the tremendous increased intricacy of the machinery of civilization and government.

"Will man continue the master of civilization," he asked, "or will it prove a Frankenstein monster that will destroy its own creator?"

Mr. Fosdick declared the assumption that man is keeping up with his own invention to be an erroneous one.

"We cannot be sure," he said, "that there has been substantial improvement in the human stock since the days of the Greek and the Egyptian. Even less sure can we be that this last century which has added so tremendously to our mechanical environment has brought with it a corresponding improvement in human capacity. In fact we know that it had not. We have come into our inheritance without greater abilities than had our grandfathers.

"Life in the future will be speeded up infinitely beyond the present. There lies in full view before us a realm of discovery in physical science till now untrodden by humans even in their wildest dreams."

GOT THAT TIRED FEELING? TAKE A HOG GLAND!

If you feel senile and gray,
Get a gland.
If your hair has gone away,
Get a gland.
If your liver tends towards blue,
If you have pneumonia, flu,
Oh, don't despair; here is your cue!
Get a gland.

—Ballads of a Reconstructed World.

One good gland, according to the American Institute of Homeopaths, deserves another.

That worthy group of savants, in annual convention in Chicago, found its conventional routine somewhat set aside by news of the interesting operation undergone by Harold F. McCormick, who is said to have paid $60,000 for an operation so that he might have young ideas.

From what the homeopaths said, the gland market is going to be pretty bullish from now on. When the gland army of the republic was first organized, only monkey glands were considered. Now, according to the homeopaths, it is likely that surgery will make use of human glands, hog glands, sheep glands and other kind of glands. It's a grand and glorious announcement.

Furthermore, operations will not be necessary. In many cases feeding the extracts of glands to the patient, according to Dr. Roy Upham of Brooklyn, will work wonderfully.

Dr. Upham made the revolutionary statement that the extract from hog glands will cure laziness, so that sense that tired feeling coming. Never call up the nearest packing house. Are you nervous? Sheep glands will give you nerves of iron. Is your son rather backward and stupid in school? Gland him up, recommends Dr. Upham.

These achievements, Dr. Upham said, are past the experimental stage. They have been proven. Three methods are coming into general use, he said, grafting, as in the case of Harold F. McCormick and Irving Bacon of New York, internal drugs and injection.

Returns to France to Join Reconstruction Work Party

MISS ROSAMOND ADIE.

MISS ADIE SAILS FOR FRANCE

Miss Rosamond Adie, Brookline society girl and daughter of Andrew Adie, former president of the United States Worsted Company, will sail from New York tomorrow for France to join the reconstruction work party of Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. P. Morgan.

Miss Adie worked with Miss Morgan in France for seven months last year, and was so tremendously interested that she decided to serve a few months this year.

The work of Miss Morgan's party, which has received the support of the French government, consists of actual work in the reconstruction of the homes of peasants in the devastated war fields, as well as chauffeuring of officials transporting of supplies, hospital work, and clerical work.

ANSWERS POUR IN TO EDISON QUESTIONS

Edison for a position of trust in his establishment is a fit subject for observation by an alienist. No. 2—An hour. No. 3—Inasmuch as character is the foundation of all business, the first question before the house would be: "Do we want that manufacturer to become one of our customers?"

SCIENCE BOARD HAD STORMY SESSIONS

Meetings of the board of directors of the Christian Science Church were hectic at times, according to testimony given in the suit of John V. Dittemore to force directors to reconsider him as a member of the board from which he alleges he was illegally removed.

Edward A. Merritt, a director, testifying today before Judge Frederic Dodge, sitting as a master, said he heard Adam H. Dickey, former chairman of the board of directors, use contemptuous language toward Mr. Dittemore and that Mr. Dittemore retaliated.

Charles E. Jarvis, business manager of the Christian Science Publishing Society, formerly clerk of the board of directors, testified that beginning in 1918 Mr. Dittemore's conduct toward the directors grew lowe and less co-operative.

ZIEGFELD AND KLAW IN SPLIT OVER PROFITS

New York, June 20.—The Klaw, Erlanger and Ziegfeld theatrical combination is split wide open over a matter of money.

Marc Klaw is on one side and Messrs. Erlanger and Ziegfeld are on the other.

Papers filed in the Supreme Court here in connection with the rumpus throw light on the income Mr. Ziegfeld receives from his girl shows. He is said to get close to $100,000 a year.

Mr. Klaw charges that while he was in Europe his partners removed him from the directorship and elected E. S. Golding in his place. He also alleges that in his absence the salary of Mr. Ziegfeld was increased from $20,000 to $52,000 annually and that Mr. Erlanger also got a large increase.

THE time to watch the health of the girl most carefully is when she is entering young womanhood. Much depends upon the proper functioning of the organs of elimination. Let no false modesty interfere with it. If you detect the slightest tendency to constipation, by signs of biliousness, headache or restlessness check it with a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

MRS. MILDRAM WILL SUE FOR DIVORCE

Samuel H. Mildram, an engineer employed by the city of Boston, was today ordered by Chief Justice Hall of the Supreme Court to pay his wife, Mrs. Eleanore L. Mildram, of Brookline, $30 for counsel fees and $60 a month maintenance, pending the wife's libel for divorce. A hearing has been set for the first week in July.

Mrs. Mildram charges her husband with infidelity on numerous occasions with an unknown woman. The Mildrams, according to her papers, were married at Brunswick, Me., March 28, 1921. In her petition Mrs. Mildram asks she be permitted to resume her maiden name of Leydon.

Attorney William H. Drew, speaking for Mrs. Mildram, said that Mr. Mildram is paid $800 a month by the city and with other fees has an annual income exceeding $12,000. He said Mr. Mildram was paying $600 a year alimony to a former wife.

Walter B. Grant, attorney for the defendant, said the charges of infidelity could not be substantiated. He said there would be no objection to the payment of the $50 monthly allowance, although, he added, Mrs. Mildram was earning $1,800 a year as a school teacher.

Attorney Drew said that Mrs. Mildram had stopped her teaching work because of a physical collapse which followed her matrimonial difficulties. She is now in care of a physician, he said.

MUSICAL STAR BIG HIT AT KEITH'S

Vivienne Segal, musical comedy star, heads the bill this week at Keith's coming to Boston for the first time in vaudeville. Her act was well received. She is a variety of songs, ranging from lullabies to Italian opera.

Ivan Bankoff, Russian acrobatic dancer, and his partner, Beth Cannon, present a unique dancing act. Bankoff without doubt is one of the best dancers of his kind seen on the vaudeville stage for years. Bob Hall, the "Extemporaneous Chap," gets the laughs with his rhymes and "knocks" on the preceding players.

William Ebs does something different in ventriloquism; Hawthorne and Cook, self-acknowledged "nuts," keep the audience in roars, and Jay and Dorothy Henricks appear in an artistic dance number. The latter are accompanied by Morey Pearl's famous jazz orchestra.

Others on the program are: Sansons and Delila, in a balancing feature; Ann Gray with her harp, and Andrew Lloyd's presentation of "living statues."

SHELLS STRIKE 3 U. S. BUILDINGS IN CHINA

Peking, June 20 (By the Associated Press) — Three American buildings in Canton were struck by shells during Sunday's bombardment of the city by the gunboats of Sun Yat Sen, the South China leader, who has been trying futilely to recapture this stronghold, Jacob Gould Schurman, the American Minister, has asked Rear-Admiral Strauss to rush protection to Canton and American gunboats are expected to proceed there.

Word that Americans in Canton were endangered was received at the legation here today in a message from the American consul at Canton. The extent of the damage to American property was not stated.

The consul has protested to Sun Yat Sen against indiscriminate firing along the Bund, the macadamised way on the waterfront.

London, June 20.—A Shanghai dispatch to the Morning Post says it is rumored that Sun Yat Sen, former head of the Southern Chinese government, is on his way to Shanghai on a warship. He is said to be accompanied by Wu Ting-Fang, who was his Foreign Minister.

NEW HAVEN IN APPEAL TO EMPLOYES

New Haven, June 20.—A circular letter which President E. J. Pearson has had distributed to all employes of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and which reviews conditions on the system as affected by ruling of the United States Railroad Labor Board, was made public today.

"Current newspaper reports," Mr. Pearson says, "indicate that strike ballots are being distributed as a result of the revised working conditions and reductions in wages recently awarded by the United States Railroad Labor Board, covering employes engaged in the maintenance of way and maintenance of equipment departments.

"The reductions in rates were made in hope and belief that business as a whole was waiting for them in order that it might drive ahead upon some basis of cost which might be regarded as reasonably permanent for some time to come. If this theory of reductions is correct, the readjustments to be made on July 1 will result in a material benefit to workers generally, as industry will revive and start in motion again those industries so essential to the comfort, well-being and economic existence of all."

FAIR WEATHER ON TAP FOR REMAINDER OF WEEK

Fair weather with no extreme heat has been promised for Boston for the remainder of the week. The weather man says that cloudy weather will last no longer than to night. Sunday's and Monda's rainfall was the second heaviest of the year, coming within one one-hundredth of an inch of the record fall of May 11 and 12. Boston ranks with the coldest places in New England today, with a temperature of 55 for five consecutive hours this morning. Nantucket had the highest mark with 72.

GAS

Will Be "The Friend in Need" This Winter. Prepare the All-Gas Kitchen Now

COAL prices are high now. With the continuation of the coal strike, prices will probably go higher. When winter comes, it may be impossible to get coal at all. Then will those living in the city where gas is available realize their advantages over those who cannot obtain it.

Save what coal you have now for winter; make your furnace heat the kitchen while it is heating the other rooms in the house. With steam or hot water install a radiator in your kitchen or a register where hot air is used. Many find that they can secure enough heat by simply leaving the kitchen door open. You will in this way get all the work out of your coal now too expensive to use for cooking.

DO your cooking with gas. Have an all-gas kitchen, for all-year-round housekeeping. Remember this—no matter what price coal is now, or will be, gas for cooking is the cheapest method, because you can control it—keep it down to doing just the work you have to do without waste. And you pay for just what you use after you have used it, not before.

We will send to you without cost or obligation a representative who will show you how you can heat your kitchen from the central heating plant, thus saving fuel costs. We have done this in thousands of cases where the all-gas kitchen is now installed. Simply drop us a line, call at any of our offices, or telephone Beach 7060.

"Sylpho-Nathol makes healthful cleanness"

"Cousin Elizabeth took a Ph.D at Wellesley. She's so eclectic and scholarly you feel that every statement she makes is backed by facts. She thoroughly approves of Sylpho-Nathol. In fact, she's advising its use in her Welfare work in Boston.

"The way in which housekeepers have come to realize the importance of sanitation is really wonderful," she said. 'Such measures are very necessary to community health. There would be less risk of influenza and other contagious diseases if Sylpho-Nathol were used in every home.'

"'All the ordinary cleaning in the world won't get rid of germs. They must be destroyed, and that's what Sylpho-Nathol does. It meets a great need for a really effective household disinfectant and deodorant.'"

Sylpho-Nathol is safe. Though 4½ times stronger than carbolic acid, it is as safe to have in the house as a cake of scouring soap.

Sylpho-Nathol is pleasant to use. It destroys odors as well as germs; but its faint, friendly, refreshing smell doesn't linger.

Sylpho-Nathol is easy to use. A teaspoonful in a quart of warm water makes a clean-smelling, pearly-gray solution that's ready for immediate use.

Sylpho-Nathol should be used regularly wherever odors may arise or germs breed—down sink holes to keep them sweet and odorless; in the garbage can to exterminate unpleasant smells and drive flies away; in the cellar to chase away damp, musty odors; and, of course, around the bathroom fixtures and as a flush for the closet bowl.

Sylpho-Nathol is a splendid healing antiseptic for cuts, burns, bruises and sprains. It is indispensable for use in the sick-room, as a safeguard against contagion.

Sylpho-Nathol comes in four handy sizes, 1fic, 35c, 65c and $1.25. Most good grocers and druggists have it. If yours hasn't, can get it easily. Just ask for it by name—"Sylpho-Nathol."

Before the week-end trip be sure you are well supplied with

HEARST URGES FRIENDSHIP IN EUROPE

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

London, June 20.—The London Evening Standard today publishes the following article by William Randolph Hearst, the American publisher, who was due to arrive in New York today aboard the Olympic:

"I return home more than ever convinced that America must keep free from European entanglements and at the same time maintain a very sympathetic attitude towards Europe. The problems of even the victorious nations of Europe are very grave, while the problems of the defeated nations are overwhelming and almost, it would seem, insoluble if present conditions continue.

"It is probable there will be no great change of conditions in any European country, no permanent solutions of difficulties under which various nations labor until the essential ideas and objects of the treaty of Versailles are materially modified.

HATRED DICTATED TREATY.

"That treaty was made immediately after the war, when hatred was at its height and when victors found it impossible and unnatural even to consider from a broad viewpoint of the general good of Europe. In any permanent solution, however, of Europe's difficulties, this matter of general good must be considered, and not until the sentiment in Europe reaches a point when this question of the general good can be calmly dealt with will there be any hope of a sound, stable solution of Europe's problems.

"The time has gone by when lands of conquered countries can be ploughed and sown with salt, when men, women and children taken captive were sold into slavery. The spirit which prompted extreme acts of this kind has no place in modern sentiment. In fact, the sentiment is not so much in sentiment as in common sense.

THE FRENCH EXTREMISTS.

"The idea of the extremists in France particularly seems to be to keep central Europe prostrate, to keep it in chains industrially and financially, to keep it shattered into small, futile fragments of States. To me this seems merely to make for demoralization, disorders, resentment and revenge, war and more war.

"What the victorious nations should want, as France above all should want, is peace—peace to enjoy what they have. France wants protection against possible retaliation from Germany. Her best protection would be a policy which brought allies, all bitterness, rather than stimulate it, and allow Germany to develop with a friendly feeling for her.

"The Russian-German alliance is viewed with alarm in France. It is a thing to be dreaded, then France at once could not have driven Russia and Germany into it by her own militarism and by subsidizing Poland's militarism. But to my mind, the Russian-German alliance isn't a menace to France. It's a safety, or at least a safety valve. It allows for German development toward the east and not toward the west. It gives Germany opportunity to progress without conflict with France. It makes for peace and for those conditions of reasonable comfort and content which preserve peace.

SECURITY LIES IN PEACE.

"France's security lies in fundamental conditions which make for peace and not in coalitions which make for war. France won the war with central Europe, but never again will France in any probability have the fortunate combination of circumstances which enabled her to win the war. Never again is she likely to have Italy, Russia, England and America battling by her side.

"As a matter of plain fact, the arrogant attitude on the part of France is likely to align many of these nations against her. There is no longer in America that fanatical devotion towards France that there lately was. Indeed, the sentiment in America has quite reasonably, in my opinion, swung to the other extreme and France is regarded by many in America as nearly as great a menace to world peace as Germany formerly was. I don't think this is just or justifiable. In fact, the safeguards for the frightful ordeal that France has passed through.

SHOULD UNITE.

"We must appreciate the intensity of her desire to protect herself from a recurrence of this ordeal. We must realize the essential rightfulness of this determination on the part of France, and we can only question or criticise the wisdom of her policies and the effectiveness of her means to secure her object.

"In America we believe in peace and policies that promote peace. Our great general, Grant, is known as much by his phrase: 'Let us have peace,' as by his victories which ended our Civil War. After all, war in Europe is nothing less than civil war. It is war between peoples of the same appearance, same purposes, same manner of thought and life, the same social organization and the same civilization. It is war between peoples of the white races at a time when the white peoples should be united to confront the menace of the yellow race, constantly uniting to assert its power and to establish its domination. General Grant's famous phrase should meet the response in Europe that it met in America.

"Rancour should subside; revenge should be forgotten; policies should be adopted which look to the progress and prosperity of all Europe. The trade and commerce between nations of Europe with mutual benefits, to harmonious relations among the nations of Europe and to unity. In fact, it is not much to hope eventually for a United States of Europe where each State will be as harmonious a part of a great federation as our States are in our federated union.

"We in America want no part in your European quarrels. We would like to take part in your peaceful actions. We would like to do our share, more than our share of the work of reconstruction, restoration and reparation not merely of material interests but of friendly sentiments and harmonious realizations. Furthermore, we will do our full share when the generals and statesmen of Europe can sincerely say with our great President and general, 'Let us have peace.'"

HOOVER PROTESTS HIGH PRICE ASKED FOR COAL

Notice that Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has made a vigorous protest against the alleged extortionate prices charged for anthracite coal by the Pittston Coal Sales Company was today received by Fuel Administrator Eugene C. Hultman. Hultman had complained that the company was offering chestnut coal for sale at $10 a ton, or $3 a ton more than the fair price, and pea coal at $7, which is $1 a ton more than the anthracite operators. "I have taken the matter up vigorously with the Pittston Coal Sales Company," said Hoover in a letter to Hultman, "and I have asked them for their reasons for quoting such a seemingly exorbitant price."

MOTHER-IN-LAW OF WARD CAN'T BE LOCATED

White Plains, N. Y., June 20.—In their efforts to prove a conspiracy to defeat justice, which would enable them to bring George S. Ward, wealthy baker, back from Cleveland to tell what he knows about the slaying of Clarence Peters of Haverhill, Mass., for which his son Walter, is charged with murder, Westchester County authorities today prepared to place testimony of a hall dozen more witnesses before the Grand Jury tomorrow.

The witnesses included Mrs. Alfred J. Hook and Mr. and Mrs. Waldo I. Schiman, poker party guests at Walter Ward's home on the night of May 15, when Peters was slain, and Dr. O. H. Schell, who treated Ward shortly before the Peters slaying, when he swallowed iodine.

Mrs. N. Willard Curtis, Ward's mother-in-law, whom deputy sheriffs have tried to serve with a subpoena for nearly two weeks, still was unserved today. Deputies were unable to learn where she had gone.

POPE DISSOLVES U. S. WELFARE COUNCIL

Rome, June 20.—The Vatican is dissolving the National Catholic Welfare Council as the result of protests from the American Episcopate, it was announced today.

Washington, June 20.—(By International News Service). Officers of the National Catholic Welfare Council here were awaiting official word today from Rome concerning the order of the Holy See dissolving the organization.

Under date of February 23 the Consistorial Congregation issued an order affecting the welfare council. The administration committee of the council met in Cleveland in April and cabled the Pope asking that the order be not published officially until opportunity had been granted for a full explanation.

As a result of this meeting, Archbishop Moeller of Cincinnati and Bishop Schrembs of Cleveland went to Rome to discuss the administration and work of the Welfare Council with the Pope. Both of the churchmen are understood to be in Rome now.

Officials of the council here have steadfastly declined to discuss the February order of the Holy See pending the conference in Rome.

STUDENT SLAIN AFTER ORGY IN TAXI

Chicago, Ill., June 20.—The police of this city are rounding up the bootleggers who have been supplying liquor to students at Lewis Institute as the result of a moonshine taxi party which resulted in the death of one of the students.

Mrs. Mary Vecke, the woman in the party, told the police that Frank J. Hahn, a married student at the university, and a man called "Al" participated in a wild party in a taxi cab.

In a lonely part of the city, the chauffeur called a policeman because of shrieking and breaking of glass in the cab. "Al" and Hahn both ran on the appearance of the policeman. Hahn failed to stop when ordered, and the officer drew his revolver and fatally shot him.

LADY JOAN CAPELL IS BRIDE AT WESTMINSTER

London, June 20.—Lady Joan Capell, half-sister of the Earl of Bussex and daughter of Adele Countess Essex, who was a daughter of the late Bench Grant of New York, became the bride of Obeert Penke at St. Margaret's, Westminster. Peake is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Penke, and belongs to one of the most prominent county officials in Yorkshire.

No less than 16 attendants, 11 bridesmaids and five pages waited upon the bride. All defied superstition by wearing green.

The ceremony was a big event in the social season. The church was crowded to capacity, scores of Americans being among those present.

The bride was attired in a regal gown of fine spun cloth of gold, simply draped on an underdress of point de Bruges lace, with a four-yard train. She received more than 300 presents.

MRS. SANBORN'S UNCLE VICTIM OF PLOT

Upheld as an "uncomplaining victim of circumstances," W. Robert Montgomery is declared by friends in Boston and New York to have sacrificed himself for the happiness of his niece, Mrs. Eleanor Sanborn, who was recently separated from Jack Sanborn, her husband.

Instead of being the cause of their separation, as the young wife has maintained, the uncle is declared by his friends to have been unjustly accused by them in order to justify their separation.

WIFE ACCUSED IN PLOT

Attorney W. L. George of Brookline, an officer of the American Discount Company of Court street, declares that Montgomery had treated his niece with every kindness and consideration—and had been repaid by being accused by her of being unduly intimate with her.

Mrs. Sanborn, Mr. George said, agreed with her young husband to obtain money from her uncle and to sign an affidavit accusing him of attempting liberties with her. This affidavit, it is said, is now in the possession of the youthful husband's attorney.

Montgomery remained silent while innuendoes and caustic whisperings were circulated about him. Then, when definite accusations were made against him, he emerged from his silence and denied that there was any vestige of truth in his niece's assertions.

Attorney George upheld Montgomery as a man of "unquestioned ability." In this he was joined by James T. Gifford, president of the Agricultural and Chemical Company, who declared his complete faith in Montgomery's integrity and gentlemanliness and asserted that Alton B. Parker, one time Democratic candidate for President, would back his statements.

WEALTH LARGELY MYTHICAL

Meanwhile, it developed that the wealth which has been attributed to the Sanborn family is largely myth. Rena Sanborn, Jack Sanborn's mother, is a widow and has a modest income. The beautiful family home in Winchester has been mortgaged for $50,000, it developed, while Mrs. Sanborn is shortly to take a position as matron in a girls' camp in New Hampshire.

Miss Helen Sanborn, a sister, will teach horseback riding at Lake Champlain, while young Jack has applied for a position as counsellor in a boys' Summer camp.

Mrs. Rena Sanborn was Miss Armstrong before her marriage, a cook in the home of Owen C. Sanborn, whom she eventually married and from whom she has separated. Her niece, an elevator girl at the Copley-Plaza, was snubbed by her after her marriage into the exclusive Sanborn family.

Betty Alden Sees Society Flocking to Harvard Class Day

By BETTY ALDEN.

POLO GAMES, yachting races, tennis tournaments, as well as dinner parties and dances, all have their place on the social calendar of those who make merry along the North Shore during the Summer months.

But even the gayest of the North Shore ceteris do not neglect the arts entirely, which accounts for the popularity of the Breckenridge School of Painting at Rocky Neck, East Gloucester. The school is again to be conducted by Hugh H. Breckenridge, the famous painter of Philadelphia, who arrives this month for the Summer with his family at Smith's Cove.

The opening of the school will not take place until the first of next month, when the belles of the Shore and their beaux may don the most artistic of smocks and "wield a mean brush"—if one may be permitted the use of such a very vernacular expression.

Another popular spot on the Shore is the Community Dramatic School, also at Rocky Neck, where many students spend the Summer in an earnest endeavor to acquire a true thespian expression. During the hot season they present several plays at The-Gallery-on-the-Moors, the quaint building planned by Ralph Adams Cram, the noted architect. The-Gallery-on-the-Moors is one of those picturesque gabled affairs of stucco, nestled in among the rocks of East Gloucester. Each year members of the Summer contingent make their way there whenever a play is presented, and usually they find themselves well entertained.

THE "debbies" of the past season, as well as the girls who have been "out" a year or more, have been saving their most bewitching frock for today and praying those last few weeks for the anti-aquatic blessing of the weather man.

For today is Harvard Class Day!

Which means that the major portion of Boston's social who's who will be on hand in celebration of this all-important event, for the Crimson has ever held a soft spot in the hearts of those who hold the social sceptres.

Norwood Penrose Hallowell has been chosen chief marshal of Class Day and Commencement. He is a member of the 1897 class, which will celebrate its 25th anniversary, and from which class the marshal is always chosen. It was only about a week ago, by the way, that Mr. and Mrs. Hallowell (Margaret Howditch), whose home is on Brush Hill road, Readville, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Hallowell, to John Crocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Crocker of Fitchburg. Mr. Crocker is a member of the Harvard senior class.

SPEAKING of the Harvard graduating class, it was interesting to see Louis McCagg, Jr., of New York, and his dainty fiancee, Miss Katherine Winslow of Boston, both serving in the bridal party of the Geoffrey Story Smiths' ("Kat" Coolidge), whose marriage on Saturday at Beverly Farms was one of the important events on the Shore.

The wedding of popular Katherine Winslow, daughter of the George S. Winslows of Chestnut street, and the young Harvard senior, will draw a fashionable throng to St. Paul's Cathedral, where the ceremony will be solemnized just a week from today. One more addition to the long, long list of Boston-New York alliances.

NO. 1 WALNUT STREET has been the scene of many a worthy charity function this past season as well as other seasons, for its two dwellers, the Misses Ida and Ellen Mason, are always glad to help charity whenever they may.

Recently the Misses Mason closed their Walnut street home and are now domiciled for the Summer at their home in Newport, R. I. Only last Sunday they opened the gardens of their estate in Little Rhody's famous watering-place, and I understand that quite a throng made their way to enjoy the splendor and beauty of the floral display.

SPENDING the week-end on Long Island Sound was James Lee, who was included in the house party given by Malcolm Meacham of New York, who has taken Rose Cottage in Southampton for the season.

Mr. Lee, as well as several other guests of Mr. Meacham, was among the few persons braving the high tide and rough seas which played about the beach at Southampton.

NORTH END BOY FALLS FROM ROOF TO DEATH

Amedio DeMello, aged nine, of No. 58 Prince street, North End, died at the Haymarket Square Relief Station today. He sustained a fractured skull when he fell fifty feet from the roof of his home to the courtyard below. He was playing on the roof.

REPRESENTATIVE MELODY WEDS DORCHESTER GIRL

Miss Mary E. Sullivan of No. 41 Moseley street, Dorchester, and Representative Patrick J. Melody of Ward Six, Boston, were married today at a nuptial mass at St. Margaret's Church by Rev. John W. Churchward. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Cecilia A. Sullivan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Dr. L. Logiodice of Boston, best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Sullivan. She is a graduate of Dorchester High School and a secretarial college. Mr. Melody is one of the younger members of the Legislature.

WILL RESUME FLIGHT TO JERSEY DESPITE MISHAP

Niantic, Ct., June 20.—Robert Hewitt, pilot of the seaplane which became lost in the fog and descended here last night, intended to resume his flight from Boston to Paterson, N. J., today. When Hewitt descended in Niantic Bay he struck a rock, which was just under the surface at the low tide, tearing a hole in the bottom of the seaplane. The plane's momentum carried him to the shore. Hewitt expects to make repairs and finish his flight today. He left Boston on Saturday, it was reported.

Rome, June 20.—Deputy Novasio of the Catholic Popular Party interpellated the government in the Chamber of Deputies on the activities of the Y. M. C. A. in Italy, declaring this organization a formidable means of evangelical proselytism and of Pan-American penetration in Europe.

The Under Secretary of the Interior replying, expressed the gratitude of Italy for the Y. M. C. A.'s philanthropic work in the war, saying the association did not make political propaganda, that it afforded perfect religious liberty and had always acted correctly and illegally.

Those present included Prince and Princess De Beauvau Craon, whose palace at No. 25 Rue Ruzet is one of the show places of Paris; the Princesse Soroitza; the Count and Countess Jean De Castellane; the Baron and Baroness Robert De Rothschild; the Count and Countess D'Ollimsson.

Mrs. Hearst will probably motor through the devasted regions next week under the guidance of the Marquise De Polignac at whose Rheims Chateau she will be a guest. They will view the Rheims Cathedral.

George Hearst is now on a motor trip to Italy, intending to visit the chateau district near Tours, the Riviera, Venice and Rome, returning through Central Europe early in July.

RADIO NEW WOOER OF MORPHEUS

"BEFORE HITTING THE HAY"

The newest cure for insomnia is radio, taken in sufficient doses just before snuggling under the old patchwork. Beats counting sheep and deep breathing all hollow. Note Miss Mildred Faxon and Miss Mary John, left to right, both of No. 5 Chester street, Cambridge, soothing lumpy nerves and wooing old Morpheus in the up-to-date way. Pretty soon the broadcasting stations will send out a series of nocturnes and cradle songs along about hay-hitting time, especially around the first of the month when the bills start coming in.

Question Box for Radio Fans

C. W., Quincy—Hook up your set as follows: Aerial to one end of large coil, other end of large coil to ground. One end of small coil to one side variable condenser, to detector, to phones, to other side of condenser, to other side of small coil.

H. D. R., Chelsea—The hook-up you request is similar to the above, except that the fixed condenser is connected to either side of the phones. The underwriters specify that No. 14 approved copper wire is O. K. for ground.

L. M., Framingham—The fact that the filament of a tube is lighted is no sign that the set is properly hooked up. While it is possible to light the filament with dry cells, it is not economical to do so.

D. D. O., Boston—Radio-frequency transformers are difficult to design. For best results they should have some means of tuning, although transformers without this feature may be designed by the manufacturer especially for the broadcast wave-lengths. R. F. amplification should increase the range of your set.

M. A. K., Revere—While a lightning switch would seem to be an adequate protection from lightning when in the ground position, the underwriters specify some form of approved lightning protector, whether a switch is used or not.

CITY PLANNER CONFERS WITH LOCAL BOARD

Nelson P. Lewis, expert city planner and director of the survey of New York which the Russell Sage Foundation is conducting, arrived in Boston today and went into conference with the City Planning Board and the Committee of 150 appointed by Mayor Curley.

Mr. Lewis has been retained to assist the City Planning Board and the committee in the work of city improvement.

One of the suggestions made at his first meeting with the board was that the city arrange for the electrification of the Boston & Albany and the removal of the freight yards between Boylston street and Huntington avenue in the Back Bay.

One of the problems Mr. Lewis will tackle while here is the establishment of the zoning system, recommended by both Mayor Curley and former Mayor Peters.

"Boston was one of the first cities to try to protect residential districts by limiting the height of buildings," said Mr. Lewis.

"This was good, but there should also be a limitation as to the area of buildings and the use of property, such as has been tried out in New York."

ROBERTS HITS BACK AT HAYES

That Mrs. James P. Roberts, wife of the dry chief, is a member of his raiding posse ex-officio and may accompany her husband on any and all his Volsteadian swoops is the edict flung at United States Commissioner Hayes by Mr. Roberts.

Mrs. Roberts accompanied her husband at the raid made at Saugus on Friday when nine men were arrested at the Oakland Vale Farm, where seven stills were alleged to have been found in operation and 121 gallons of moonshine seized.

EIGHT HELD FOR TRIAL

When an attorney for eight of the defendants asked United States Commissioner Hayes to quash the complaint on the ground that Roberts had not acted expeditiously in serving the search warrants, but had taken his wife along, Commissioner Hayes said:

"There was great impropriety in Mr. Roberts taking Mrs. Roberts along, but it might have been done casually."

He held eight of the defendants for a hearing later, one being discharged.

In an interview with the American the Commissioner flayed Assistant Federal Attorney Hayes for dignantly the charge of "impropriety" made by Commissioner Hayes in court when evidence showed that Mrs. Roberts was a member of a raiding party.

HOT SHOT FOR HAYES.

"The old stumbling block may be told for me," he declared, "that any time Mrs. Roberts desires to accompany me on a raiding party, whether it is the one at Oaklandvale Farm, which the Commissioner makes mention of, or any other, she is entitled to come.

"Hayes says he can't imagine why I should want to take my wife along. He is eternally showing his inability to imagine anything except how to let dry offenders escape on technicalities.

"He should find something real to criticise in the conduct of my office instead of making such childish, absurd charges. More and more he becomes the ideal stumbling block to the enforcement of the liquor laws, if such a thing can be termed ideal.

"It had nothing to do with the putting of the dry amendment in the constitution. But it is there, and I trust I will not always have to remind Mr. Hayes that it really is a part of our governing document. Some day I trust that he will wake up to his true status as a stumbling block to law enforcement and reform.

GOES OVER HIS HEAD.

"Meanwhile it becomes my duty to go over the old man's head very often when I desire rigid prosecution of evaders of the Volstead act. Whenever he shows that inherent ability of his to procrastinate and stall I, with the aid of the United States District Attorney's staff, take the case out of his hands and go before the Federal Grand Jury and uphold the law.

"Repeatedly we thus go over the old man's head to obtain convictions. Of course, in retaliation he makes such absurd charges as the one in court Monday.

"I'm out to uphold the dry law because it's the law of the land. He is continually criticising me for doing my duty. It is only natural that I should hit back—and between the two of us, we're a couple of Kilkenny cats," he concluded with a smile.

C. G. WHITING, FORMER EDITOR, DEAD AT OTIS

GETS BACK HIS RING, BUT GIRL WEDS ANOTHER

Morris got the ring, but the doctor got the girl.

Now everybody's happy.

Instead of a $900 diamond the girl has a plain gold band and a husband.

It was a sensational mixup.

Dr. Joseph Henry Selib, a Dorchester dentist, married Miss Bernadine F. Sturman at the Powers Hotel in Rochester, N. Y.

Just before the wedding Morris M. Minsker, treasurer of the Jamestown (N. Y.) Iron & Metal Co., former fiance of Miss Sturman, appeared with sheriffs and served papers to get back the $900 ring he had given her in 1920.

They had a difficult time serving the papers, being told the marriage had been performed and the bridal couple had gone. But a smart deputy sheriff outwitted a smart maid at the Sturman home and the papers were served.

Then the ring was surrendered and away went Morris.

Wedding bells and now a honeymoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Selib will be in Dorchester shortly.

DENTIST WINS GIRL MINUS $900 GEM

Just as Dr. Selib, of Dorchester, was getting married to Miss Sturman at Rochester, N. Y., a forme fiance of the bride appeared on the scene with a bunch of deputy sheriffs and succeeded in getting from her a $900 diamond engagement ring he had given her.

TAFT CALLS ON KING GEORGE

London, June 20. (By the Associated Press).—Large forces of London's men of the pen, the pencil and the camera laid siege to William Howard Taft today and captured him bodily. Their ranks comprised newspaper men, photographers, motion picture operators and cartoonists. The Chief Justice of the United States finally surrendered to all four divisions of his besiegers, being interviewed, photographed and caricatured.

Otherwise his second day in London was spent chiefly in visiting the English law courts. He was accompanied by Sir John Simon, former Attorney General, and other leaders of the British bar. He had luncheon with Ambassador Harvey and later called on King George, to whom he presented a message of greeting and friendship from President Harding.

MINERS' HEADS AND RAIL MEN AT PARLEY

Cincinnati, June 20 (By the Associated Press).—Interest here today in the nation-wide rail strike situation centred in the conference tonight between officials of the miners and railroad shop crafts unions when plans for concerted strike action between these organizations will be discussed.

William H. Johnston, president of the machinists, declared the only possible move that could prevent a walkout of approximately 1,000,000 rail workers July 1, was for the government to order the Labor Board to suspend its order reducing wages.

BOARD TO REPLY.

Chicago, June 20 (By the Associated Press).—A formal reply to the communication of leaders of ten railway unions who told the United States Railroad Labor Board a railroad strike would be authorized if the referendum favored a suspension of work is being prepared by the board, it was learned today.

Meanwhile union headquarters were speeding up the strike vote in an effort to have it tabulated by Saturday when the general committee of ninety representing the rail unions mets here to canvass the returns.

Fifty thousand ballots cast by shop crafts employes have been almost solidly for a strike, according to John Scott, secretary of the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor.

MORE STRIKE BALLOTS.

Grosser, general organizer of the union. Inasmuch as agreements have been signed with several railroads, no general strike referendum will be taken.

ASSERT PEOPLE ARE MISLED ON FORD OFFER

Washington, June 20.—Henry Ford's offer to purchase and lease the government's power and nitrate projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was attacked today in a report to the House, prepared by Representative Kearns, Republican, Ohio, and signed by several other Republican members of the House Military Committee.

The report declared dissatisfaction with opinions already presented to the House by other members of the committee, and announced that the signers were determined to tell "the inside the 'real facts about Muscle Shoals and the so-called Ford offer."

Decaring the belief that "the country little understands what it is that Mr. Ford is offering to do or what, if anything, he is offering for the great plant," the signatories said "let's describe as one of the most insidious propagandas that the nat'on has witnessed for many a day."

Many of the Ford advocates the report says are honest and conscientious but have been misled as to the facts. In this connection it points to the provision by which fertilizers would be manufactured and says that despite "persistent reports that he will compel the fertilizer manufacturers of the country to sell their product at one-half of what they are now selling it," Mr. Ford "does not agree to make fertilizers at all unless he can make them with a profit to himself."

The committeemen decare "this is a hollow promise made to enlist the support of the farmer and not founded on fact, and charge that propagandists fail to tell the people that "the principal business of Mr. Ford, should he get this giant de plant, would be the manufacturing of other articles, which he would be allowed to sell at any price that he might see fit."

The properties for which Mr. Ford offers the government $5.00-000, the report says, already have cost the government $85,447,800.

MOVIE WORLD NEWS AND COMMENT

By FRIEDA DAVIS

"OVER THE BORDER"
Paramount Production.

Jen	Betty Compson
Tom Flaherty	Tom Moore
Galbraith	Farrell Macdonald
Val	Casson Ferguson
Pierre	Jean de Briac
Byng	L. C. Shumway
Snow Deal	Sidney D'Albrook

From novel, "She of the Triple Chevron," by Sir Gilbert Parker. Scenario by Albert S. LeVino. Directed by Penelope Nanlaws.

WHETHER or not you like stories of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police and the Canadian wilds you will like "Over the Border," headlining at Loew's State Theatre this week. When the name Penelope Nanlaws flits across the screen at the start of a production you can prepare for a story well done, whether the story is good or not. As a matter of fact the story is uncommonly good. It's all about bootlegging on the Canadian border with the bootlegger, his daughter Jen, and his son, Val, playing tag with the mounted police back and forth over the border.

It is purely conventional stuff but the most usual bit is so naturally done that it holds the audience throughout. Tom Moore, as the young police sergeant, who is in love with the bootlegger's daughter, brings in his usual share of comedy relief, while Betty Compson, as the daughter in question, is both emotional and beautiful, though more successfully beautiful than emotional.

One of the quirks of the production is the way it reacts on the audience. Instead of applauding when the stalwart minion of the law scores a hit they are grateful when one of the law breakers manages to "put one over." There was a burst of handclapping yesterday afternoon when Casson Ferguson, after having murdered one of the police agents, reaches safety instead of falling into the hands of his pursuers. It's just that sort of a picture.

MORE INGRAM "FINDS."

REX INGRAM seems destined to couple his success as a director with success in "discovering" players. Alice Terry and Valentino were the first, with a heavy accent on Valentino, who has been raised to the movie peerage, that is, stardom.

With his "Prisoner of Zenda," come more "finds" of Ingram's. First, according to the director himself, is Ramon Samaniego, of whom it is said that he will outdo the famous Rodolph.

Barbara La Marr, who ran almost be said to have made her mark with Douglas Fairbanks in several films, is "breaking good," and now comes Malcolm McGregor, another "Zenda" find, who has been chosen for the lead in the Goldwyn $10,000 prize picture "Broken Chains." McGregor was a classmate of Ingram's at Yale. He has been an "extra" for some months.

Better Business

Your hand can dam the mighty Mississippi at its source. Lift your hand, and the labors of a nation cannot halt the majestic sweep of the waters near their mouth.

Business is like the Mississippi. Remove the barrier at the source of supply, and the stream of trade will grow in volume as the rivulet becomes the river.

The War Department today is the greatest single source of supply the business world has ever known. Impounded in its warehouses are millions of dollars worth of materials—bought to meet the acid test of use by your army in the struggle "over there." Their nature is as varied as the demands of diversified industry.

Better business depends in large measure upon unhindered distribution of this surplus in the channels of trade. Do your part in releasing these stores. The catalogs of offerings show the way. Write:

DEMPSEY AND WILLS ALREADY MATCHED, SAYS CONWAY

COLOR LINE TORN DOWN BY THE CHAMPION

Harry Wills

Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills have already signed articles for a championship bout, according to very reliable information this writer has received from a source close to Jack Kearns. The time and place of the bout as well as the division of the purse have been agreed upon.

Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills, is a close personal friend of Jack Kearns. When Kearns was in Boston with Dempsey, the manager of the world's champion told this writer he was anxious to close a match with Wills.

The only thing I want to make sure of," said Kearns in that the promoter who finally gets the affair will be able to stage it. You know there is sure to be a holler about "mixed" bouts as soon as Jack and Harry are signed up. It costs a lot of money to properly prepare for a championship contest. Consequently I wouldn't want the affair tossed overboard by the authorities at the last minute.

"As far as a contest is concerned, Dempsey and Wills is the logical match. I realize Wills' great ability. But I figure Tiger Jack" would be able to defeat him. Dempsey never drew the color line. He's always been ready to fight any man named by the public. But we can't fight Wills or any of the other negro ring men unless the authorities sanction such a meeting."

Gov. Edwards Not Opposed to Dempsey-Wills Bout

Governor Edwards of New Jersey, who isn't afraid to state his real views, regardless of what political effect they may have, has made it known that he would not oppose a Dempsey-Wills bout at Jersey City. Such a contest would mean thousands of dollars to the State of New Jersey, which would cause a lot of cheering on all sides.

Eddie Mullins' recent move of posting a forfeit for a Wills-Tex Rickard bout with the New York Boxing Commissioner, we think may be one of the plan to pass the Dempsey-Wills match to the public.

We announced the Leonard-Tendler bout a month before any other newspaper, and we think our information on the Dempsey-Wills affair is every bit as reliable.

Mullins knows he can't force Dempsey's hand. He wouldn't be so unwise as to post a forfeit unless he had an agreement with Kearns.

Dempsey, a regular fighter, is in the game to get all the money he can. And he doesn't care a whole lot whether he gets the big jack by fighting a white man or a negro.

Meanwhile the controversy about the standing of the negro boxers is growing. We have received hundreds of letters from boxing fans in all parts of New England and will publish them all when the occasion presents itself.

"Give Johnson Chance to Redeem Himself"

The following from O. C.:

"I read Mr. Curry's letter to you as printed on your sporting page. Mr. Curry must indeed be a narrow-minded man or he is not a real fight fan. No one can dispute the fact that Mr. Johnson made a terrible mistake to my sorrow as well as to thousands of others, but he is repentant, has taken his medicine and is now trying to make good.

"Read the hundreds of letters in the mail who have made even greater mistakes than Mr. Johnson and have been forgiven. I will not forget Mr. Johnson for I have seen his true colors.

"There's a way out, Mr. Conway you have a very sporting, generous, because I love fighting game when it is clean, regardless of who the fighter is. On with the fight!"

Says Johnson Is Disgrace to the Colored Race

J. J. Lynch of No. 253 Jewett street, Providence, writes:

"Being a constant reader of your column I have read with much interest comments of the various other readers. Permit me to add my mite.

"Jack Johnson like a lot of other Hillcrest [illegible] men feel that they should [illegible] which [illegible] opportunity Johnson has [illegible] and showing what caliber of man he was when he was champion.

"Have the public forgotten what he said of the white women of Chicago at the time of the scandal? Give him the championship again, and there will be another Jack Johnson commit suicide and Johnson will peek another white wife.

"Here's the dope. Let Mr. Johnson fight Willard. There are a lot of folks that think that the Johnson and Willard fight was a little shady. If Johnson and Willard then give him a chance with Harry Wills who is a credit to the colored race and have the winner have the first chance with our present champion.

"There are quite a few present day fighters that would take Johnson's measure. Marvin Hart who never was a world beater, gave Johnson a nice lacing for twenty-five rounds and Johnson was younger and much better then than he is today.

"There is some talk about Willard getting another chance with Dempsey. Why should the public stand for this but cheese grabbing off another big purse? Who did this lemon ever lick? If this big ham thinks he can fight let him fight Ropely or Fulton. Make would give Dempsey pitcher, catcher and outfielder."

Toth to Try New Pull; Boat Load of Men Down Bay

Charlie Toth, "I." street Brownie, will pull a new one. This time Charlie will pull a life boat with six full grown men for a little ride down the Bay. His advisor, Gus Wise, visited a harness-maker and had a harness made for the husky Brownie, who plans to swim from the L street bath tomorrow morning to some unknown part of Boston Harbor.

Another Woman Fan Favors Johnson Match

Mrs. H. C. Butler of No. 17 Hornblike street writes:

"I am a daily reader of your interesting paper, and in reading your [illegible] published by Mr. Curry of Providence, R. I., concerning Mr. Jack Johnson fighting Mr. Jack Dempsey, was quite amused to find what narrow views he displayed in referring to Mr. Johnson's character.

"He must remember we are all human and make mistakes, if Mr. Jack Johnson made any mistakes he has suffered the consequences proudly, and best of all Mr. Johnson is an American citizens, which is much to the average American sportsman of broad mindness. He is the only champion this country has had since he won the title from Mr. Tommy Burns in Australia, and when Mr. Dempsey meets Mr. Jack Johnson in the ring then we will learn who is a sport. The color of one's flesh has absolutely nothing to do with them in sight of God and man either, when he is broad minded enough to admit it. I am a strong admirer of Mr. Jack Johnson and am confident he is the best fitted character to meet Mr. Jack Dempsey."

KID LEWIS KNOCKS OUT BURNS IN THE ELEVENTH

London, June 20.—Kid Lewis, [illegible] knocked out Billy Burns in the eleventh round of their bout. The contest was for the middleweight championship of the British empire.

From the outset Lewis carried the fight to Burns and scored heavily in the infighting, displaying superior ring craft. The extra nine pounds of weight carried by the Australian appeared to [illegible] He was unable to get inside of Lewis' defense, while [illegible] Burns could merit was in his capacity for ducking.

Jeffries Tiger Captain

Princeton, N. J. June 20.—John H. Jeffries, Jr. of Norwich Pa., will be the captain of the Princeton baseball team next season. Jeffries is one of the most versatile Tiger athletes, serving this season as pitcher, catcher and outfielder.

GEORGE WARD IS SURE TO MAKE BIG HIT

Golden is here with Ward for the latter's first bout in this city. Ward has made a meteoric climb in the face ball of fame by defeating every opponent he has met in the welterweight class.

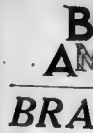
BRAVES AFTER CLEANUP BEFORE HITTING WESTERN TRAIL

PLAY 11 MORE GAMES ON HOME FIELD

By NICK FLATLEY.

The Brave cripples, all troubled with bad running gear, got a little extra vacation thro[ugh] the unseasonal showers that moistened up the s[ward], and the holiday and everything. Manager [Mc]Innis will not take any chances with the bad legs and ankles and knees that he bosses, and will keep his stars on the sidelines till all danger of skidding is past.



Captain Southworth and Roy Powell, regular outfielders and 300 hitters, are ready to hurdle back into the picture, but neither one will until the base paths have dried out thoroughly. Any little slip in bad going would be ill-y to wipe out the benefits of the hospital sessions [the] boys have been through.

Walter Holke will ...t be back before the end of the week, but meantime the club can keep Cruise on first base, and with Southworth, Nelson and Powell in the garden would have a very formidable line-up, offensively and the other way.

The Braves have seventeen more games in the East before they take the next shot at the long and distant trail. They play a pair with Cincy today and tomorrow, weather permitting. Then they go over to Philly and finish up the week. They have Sunday in New York with the Giants, and return to the Quaker orchard for a Monday joust.

Then they come home again and take on the Brooklyns for five successive afternoons. That winds up next week. The Mitchmen jump to Flatbush for a Sunday collection and then have a three-day series with the Phillies here, the same including the Fourth of July doubleheader.

That stretch gives the team plenty of chance to get up toward the roof and any continuation of the playing of the past two weeks will perch them somewhere in the first division, when they open in Chicago. The Cubs have been the only club [from] the West to give the Tribe much bother, and getting even would be a natural and comfortable sort of ending the second trip. Even Will Killefer's pupils have taken five out of six from the Mitchmen, a record not even approached by the champion Giants or the Dodgers, who have been particularly poisonous this spring.

Between now and Independence Day, the Braves have a good chance to climb. The teams they play don't figure to finish in the first division. The Boston representatives, although seventh, aren't so far back from the pace. If they can pick up a couple of games in the next two weeks, they must be considered contenders.

In the miracle year of '14, the Tribe was an even dozen games back of first place on July 4. Chopping off a few between now and the approaching holiday, the club would be only half that number away from the pinnacle, and that's not much of a handicap for a fighting ball club, with as many pitchers as the Braves own.

The Reds didn't kick at all when the showers gave them a layoff yesterday, as a couple of the Moran pitchers are under the weather. Donahue, who is a real star, has been bothered with a sore arm, but worked out Saturday, and expects to be back on the steady job right away.

Braves and Reds Go to the Theatre Tonight

The Braves and Reds will be guests tonight at the Gayety Theatre, where the "Follies of the Day" company do a few extra stunts to celebrate baseball night.

Barney Gerard, owner of the show, has several times considered buying his way into big league ball, and as he's a rooter of fast, clean sport, chances are he will have a try at it yet.

Gerard was interested in the Red Sox proposition, but the purchase price scared him off, as it has most of the prospective buyers. He knows the sport game, as he directed Jack Johnson's campaigns when the big negro was heavyweight champ.

LAWRENCE MEETS LYNN FOR STATE TITLE

The Lynn English baseball team returned today after two unsuccessful attempts to play Augusta High of Maine, full of fight and pep that will display itself when they tackle Lawrence High this afternoon on Little River Playground, Lynn, for the State championship.

It is without doubt the best schoolboy attraction of the season. Lynn marched through its North Shore League list without a loss, winning 15 games. It is considered the fastest team ever to represent the Shoe City.

Lawrence is also represented by a speedy nine, which has won 11 games with one loss to Manchester High, the game which caused the severing relations between the two schools.

Lawrence, coached by Mark Devlin, defeated Newton, the Suburban League champion.

The four days of inactivity may slow up Lynn's team play, but Coach George Sexton, who has brought the boys along at a fast clip, hopes to iron out the kinks in the morning's workout.

"Buck" Burke

Lynn hopes rest on Bob Silchia, who has displayed rare ability this season.

Coach Sexton is also fortunate in having Jimmy Deegan and Larry Kelley, both capable of hurling high-class baseball.

Shortstop Lester "Buck" Burke is conceded the honor of being the best in goobery in the league. Working in conjunction with him at the keystone sack is Lenny Eldridge, one of the classiest ball players to break into the limelight for many a moon. The pair form a stone wall in the Lynn defense.

In the outfield is Bill Murphy, the "Babe Ruth" of the North Shore League. This hard hitting youngster has saved the day on many occasions with his four-ply clouts and is out for one more in this contest.

Three Home Runs in Phils' Battle With Cubs

The Phillies' famous "band box," home run hitters' paradise, was the scene of an honest-to-goodness four-ply battle yesterday. Hack Miller of the Cubs produced a pair of runs in the ninth inning with his circuit wallop. Kaufmann, youthful Cub hurler, broke a tie in the ninth when his wallop scored one man ahead of him. With two on in the last half, John Peters of the Phillies came up as a pinch hitter and broke up the game by slamming the ball into the left field bleachers for the third and most important homer of the afternoon.

FAVOR HARVARD NINE TO WIN FROM YALE

New Haven, Conn., June 20.—Every indication this morning pointed to a record breaking crowd at the opening game of the Yale Harvard baseball series today. Sweltering weather, typical of Yale commencement, prevailed.

The rainy period of four days cleared during the night and the diamond on Yale Field, which had been water soaked, promised to be thoroughly dried by 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Yale players returned this noon from the Montowese House at Indian Neck, where they spent the night.

The Harvard players did not leave their rendezvous at Hotel Clark, Derby, until after lunch.

The teams planned to dress at Yale Field and, following the game, to take the same train back to Boston, arriving there at 10 o'clock and playing their second match in Cambridge tomorrow.

Neither Coach Blattery nor Coach Tommers would announce his pitchers this morning, but the wiseacres at Harvard insist that Harlan Russell will start the game and that if a change is needed, Erwin Gerkins will be sent to the slab.

Ted Chittendon is sure to be Yale's nomination because he has easily the best record for the season. Dorr Hickey will be held in reserve.

Ted Wahl, however, is slated for Yale's game in Cambridge tomorrow when Eddie Goode is expected by Yale to be slated for the hops assignment for the Crimson.

Coach Blattery said that Conlon is in tip-top condition and will start the game at shortstop, and that Owen would be found against first base. Although Owen has been in eleven contests against Yale, he has yet to take part in a loser.

Betting favors Harvard for today's game, 6 to 5, and for tomorrow's bout, 5 to 3. Yale is not regarded as logically strong enough for the fast flying Crimson nine, although it swept Princeton from the field by clean cut victories and scores of 14 to 8 and 4 to 3 in straight games.

GERMAN BIKER IS TO RACE HERE

Willie Appelhans, one of the world's best bike riders, who recently arrived here, has hopes of appearing in the numerous cycle tracks all over the United States. This great German rider and bike game has been in the game fourteen years out of his thirty-four. Cycle followers in this section will be glad to know that Appelhans will ride at Revere, Worcester, Providence, Newark and other tracks.

BROCKTON OUT FRONT ON THE FISTIC MAP

Brockton, June 20.—One of the best sporting cities in New England, is going to have big league boxing. The first match will take place next Friday evening at Walk over Park, when Abe Friedman, New England bantam champion, clashes with Danny Edwards in a ten-round bout. This team of classy battlers is bound to furnish plenty of excitement, as Friedman is out to even matters with the boy who won a decision over him. Friedman when in condition as he is at present, is a good bet against any boy his weight. His victory over Johnny Curtin a week ago convinced his manager, Eddie Mack, that he is now in the shape to take the boy who has been christened a second George Dixon, into camp.

Frankie Quill of Brockton meets Willie Harmon of New York in the semi final bout.

FINN TO ENTER WORCESTER

Maurice Finn, the English High track star, intends to enter Worcester Academy in the Fall. This makes the second star to join the Worcester school from this section. Finn won three first places in the Regimental games the past season and should develop as a fast rate when confining all his athletic ability to the cinder path at the new institution.

The Jamaica Plain Twilight League will play its first game to night at the Carolina Avenue Playgrounds, Jamaica Plain.

LEONARD SIGNS WITH FRESNO

Dutch Leonard

Word received from Fresno, California, says that Dutch Leonard, former Red Sox and Tiger twirler, is to pitch on the San Joaquin Valley league, on the Golf Coast.

Leonard was a mighty fine twirler a few seasons back and should be an added attraction to the Coast nine. The Fresno Club magnates were sadly in need of a southpaw twirler and by getting the signature of Leonard feel things will run along more smoothly.

Miske Fights Meehan

Oklahoma City, June 20.—Billy Miske and Willie Meehan have been matched to box ten rounds here July 3.

EXPECT "COME-BACK" FROM MORVICH

Morvich, the colt which had his championship crown knocked kicking by Whiskaway last Saturday in the running of the Carlton Stakes, is now quartered in a stall at the Latonia track awaiting the call to redeem himself when he meets his conqueror in the Latonia special next Saturday. The other Eastern an. Latex—Pillory, Whiskaway and Olympus—will leave here for the [Lex]ington tomorrow. Prudish is also going with the Whitney pair to run in the Oaks.

The defeat of Bob Black's great colt in the Carlton is still the chief topic of conversation. Most of the prominent trainers are convinced that Morvich was not himself by many pounds when he lowered his colors to Whiskaway despite the fact that Jimmy Rowe's speed marvel covered the mile route in close to record time.

MAY HAVE GONE STALE

One of the leading trainers at the country who like others did not want to be quoted, said that Morvich is still the great colt that was unbeaten as a two-year-old.

"You can't tell me," he said, referring to Morvich's defeat by Whiskaway, "that a colt of his class should go back that much. I don't think the difference in weight had anything to do with the defeat. There was something the matter with the colt which, of course, I cannot explain.

"When I saw that Morvich could not overtake Whiskaway going around the turn or even reduce the distance between him and the leader, I knew he was beaten. The only explanation I can give for Morvich's poor showing is that he had gone stale, a result of his strenuous training since the early Spring. He may be one of those colts that doesn't thrive on stiff conditioning, and again he may not be.

"Anyway," he continued, "I think his race in the Carlton did him a lot of good and put him in right shape for the $50,000 Special next Saturday. Men who know horses also know what peculiar animals they are. They have contended all ments which are not discovered until the symptoms become prominent. Morvich may be suffering from something that has not shown yet and again, as I said before, he might have been stale. I look to see him run a far different race in the Latonia Special and would not be surprised to see him turn the tables on Mr. Whitney's colt."

SURE TO IMPROVE.

Another trainer had this to say:

"Don't let Morvich's showing fool you. He had nothing to beat in the Kentucky Derby and here comes the Carlton Stakes, a cinch affair, just one week before the Latonia with its $50,000 to the winner. Burlew had to race him against the stars here to get him on edge for the big dough even if he were beaten. The only way to condition horses for big events is to race them in competition. Morvich is bound to improve over that defeat."

"How about Whiskaway also improving?" asked another.

"Well and good," replied the one questioned, "but don't overlook the fact that Morvich is only picking up three pounds, while Whiskaway has to slap on eighteen. That's going to make all the difference in the world. Whiskaway was just as tired at the finish last Saturday as was Morvich and with even weights there's going to be a different story to tell. Just wait and see if I'm not right.

"And now we've got to wait and s[ee] whether he is or not."

If the [Cu]n's players were trip[ped] up by Morvich on Saturday they were knocked flat on their backs at Olympus yesterday. Many poor flappers figuring Olympus a rap on the nose went for more than their leathers slowed.

Prohibition Goat for Fitchburg Ball Team

Fitchburg, June 20.—Believing that a jinx has been following the Fitchburg baseball team of the Eastern League, L. A. Brennan has decided that things must change, so Wednesday afternoon he will present a goat to the team as a mascot. Brennan believes that with the goat the team will be able to get the goat of any team in the league. When asked what the name of the goat would be, he said with a smile, it's name is "Prohibition." The goat is coming all the way from Canada, and on account of coming into a prohibition country it has been decided to call him by that name. The goat was born and raised on the famous Astor Farms.

Souls for Sale

RUPERT HUGHES' GREATEST NOVEL

What Would YOU Do?

IF you were beautiful young Remember Steddon, a Massachusetts minister's daughter, whose sweetheart died before the wedding, would you try to bring up your baby among those who knew you in your own home town? Or would you run away for a fresh start with new surroundings? If you had your living to make, would you try to get into the movies? Dr. Brethericck, the family physician, advised Remember to go to California. This she did, writing her parents a fictitious tale of having married and lost her "husband." She is thrown in with a movie company, and Tom Holby, leading man, gets her a chance. She makes a hit in a close-up picture and is out in a terrific desert sand storm. She falls from a cliff and is told that the accident caused the death of her unborn child. Remember arrives in Los Angeles and determines to "pay the price" for a chance in the movies. This struggle of a young girl to work out her own salvation is stirringly told in Rupert Hughes' greatest novel. Go on with the story.

IT blistered somewhat the hordes of ingenuity women who had a passion for the camera.

After the run in she had learned who Mr. Tirrey was and what the duties were of a casting director. It was he who said to this one or that one "Here is a part; play it, and the company will give you so much a week."

He was the St. Peter of the movie heaven, empowered to admit or to deny. He was the man for her to seek. He had seemed a decent enough sort and he had looked at Mem without impudence. But you could never tell. Mrs. Nurse had it on the best authority that the only way to success in the movies was—"the easiest way."

Mem took a street car home. She was glad to find the house empty. Lora and the others were out on a canoe hike, dressed in high boots and riding breeches, and braving the perils of rattlesnakes as well as the frightful men who lurked in the thickets or who sprang out of autos and kidnaped women every now and then.

Mem pondered the costume appropriate to her new errand. She was going to lure Lucifer, and she was afraid that he would be too sophisticated for her. But her instinct was seized for her by its ears, and she had only one very pretty gown so she put that on.

She studied herself a long while in the mirror, as she always did, and her smile must be her chief wardrobe, her chief equipment. She practiced such expression as she supposed to represent invitation. They were all pretty and they made her rather ill. The face in her glass was so sweet and so miserable that she borrowed some of Lora's warmest face powder and smeared her mouth crudely with the red lip stick.

It was a long journey to the studio, with three transfers of street car. She reached the lot late in the afternoon but before the executive was disturbed and the department forces released.

Gatekeepers Knew Her

The gatekeepers knew her, smiled at her, and let her in. She went to the casting director's office and found him idly swapping stories with his assistant. He spoke to her courteously, and when she asked if she might see him a moment he motioned her into his office, gave her a chair, closed the door, and took his own place behind his desk.

Remember tries to play the Vampire. "I'll pay the price. I know what it costs to succeed," she cries, grasping the director by the arms.

The telephone rang. He called into it: "Sorry, Miss Waite; that part has been filled. The company couldn't make your salary. I begged you to take the cut, but you wouldn't. Times are hard and you'd better listen to reason. You'd have had four weeks of good money, and now you'll walk. Take my advice next time, old dear, and don't haggle over salary. . . . All right. Sorry. Good-bye"

He turned to Mem and started to smile. The telephone jingled. He had a parley with a director who could not see a certain actor whom Mr. Tirrey was urging as the ideal for the type. They debated the case as if he had been a racehorse or a trained animal. Tirrey spoke of him as a gentleman, who could wear clothes and look the part. He had been miscast in his last picture. He was willing to take three hundred a week off his salary because his wife was in the hospital and one of his daughters was going away to boarding school.

Another telephone call — an agent, evidently, for Tirrey said: "We took a test of Miss Glover. She's terrible! Her mouth is repulsive, her cheek ought to be straightened, her eyes are of the blue that photographs like dishwater. We can't use her. Don't tell her that, of course. Tell her we're not certain about the picture; we may not do it for months. Give the poor thing a good story."

This was a discouraging background for Mem's siren scenario. But she was determined to carry out her theory. Mr. Tirrey's eyes looked her way now and then as he listened to what was coming in through the wire.

Proceeds to Vamp.

When he looked away, Mem, in all self loathing, adjusted herself in her lap and tried to look as limned was a Cleopatran sinuosity. She thought of her best lines: seemed curled up in girlish fun, thrust her ankles well into view. She turned upon Mr. Tirrey the most lambent eyes, and tried to pour contrempt into them as into bowls of fire.

She nursed her lips and set them full. She widened her breast with deep sighs.

Tirrey seemed to recognize that she was deploying herself. He grew a little uneasy. Before he finished the telephone talk, his assistant came in to say that another of the directors had decided to call a big ballroom scene the next day, and fifty ladies and gentlemen must be secured at once.

"He wants real swells, too," the assistant said. "He says the last bunch of muckers queered the whole picture."

Tirrey groaned and said, "Get busy on the other wire." He took up his telephone again, used it as a long antenna, and felt through the city for various extra people. He advised several actors and actresses to lay aside their pride and take the real money rather than starve.

His patience, his altruistic enthusiasm for the welfare of those invisible persons, touched Mem with admiration. She could not see where or when this Samaritan could find time or inclination to play the satyr.

He was a bit fagged when he finished his last chores upon the individuals and the agencies. But he was as polite to Mem as if she had been Bobina Tesla.

"What can I do for you?"

"I want a chance to act."

"Anything in particular. What experience have you had?"

"Mem had not come here to offer her past, but her future. She was suddenly confronted with the fact that all actors must offer themselves for sale—not the pretty women only, but the old men, too, and the character women.

Actors are much abused for talking of themselves. Few of them do when business is not involved. But when it is they must discuss the goods they are trying to sell. Shoe merchants talk shoes; railroad presidents, railroads; politicians, politics; clergymen, salvation. Each salesman must recommend his own stock and talk it up.

So Mem had to grope for experiences and dress her window with it. And she had an little she had a little, as one does who tries to sell anything.

"I was with the company that Tom Holby and Bobina Tesla played in. I took the part of an Arabian woman. Mr. Folcer, the director — or — praised my — for work."

"Well, he knows" said Tirrey "but he's not with us, you know. Have we your name and address and a photograph outside in our files?"

"What's your line?"

"Anything."

"No."

"Well, if you'll give them to Mr. Dobbs with your height, weight, color of eyes and hair, and experience, we'll let you know when anything occurs. Everything's full just now, and we're doing almost nothing, you know."

His was already implying that the interview was ended. She broke out zealously:

Do Anything.

"But I've got to have a chance. I'll do anything," she pleaded. He looked sad, but rose and shook his head.

"I'm sorry, my dear. I can't give you jobs when there aren't any, now can I? I'll introduce you to Mr. Dobbs and he—"

He moved toward the door to escape from the cruelty of his office but a frenzy moved her to seize his arm in a fierce clutch She tried to play the vampire as she had seen the part enacted on the screen by various slithy loves. She drew her victim close to her, pressed tight against him, and poured upward into his eyes all the venom of an amorous basilisk.

"I'll pay the Price. I know what it costs to succeed, and I'm willing to pay. I'll do anything you say, be anything to you. You can't refuse me."

She could hardly believe her own ears hearing her own voice, though her pride in the acting she was doing lifted her from the disgust for the rôle.

He looked at her without surprise, without horror, without even amusement, but—like without a hint of surrender. His only mood was one of faded pity.

"You poor child, who's been filling your head with that stuff? Are you really trying to vamp me?"

The cross word angered her

"I'm trying to force my way to my career, and I don't care what it costs."

Tirrey's sarcastic smile faded.

Common Sense

"Sit down a minute and listen to me. A little common sense ought to have told you that what you've been told is all rot. But suppose it wasn't. Suppose I were willing to give a job to every pretty girl who came in here and tried to bribe me with love. Do you know how many women I see a day a hundred and fifty or some about that; nearly a thousand a week. I haven't the time, and I'm a cripple at love and I like ugly people well at that

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

By Ann Lisle

A RENT you surprised to find me established in an office of my own? I asked casually, thinking that by talking about myself for a moment I'd be able to coax her to talk of herself in turn

"I hate to spoil your surprise," she replied frankly "But Mr. Heath wrote about it to uncle and then I heard it too."

"It's nice to have faithful correspondents, isn't it?" I asked. But she seemed sad with an air of seeming naïveté.

And Irma's naïveté, which is real, responded frankly to the load.

"It was so nice to hear from home," she confided with the quaint simplicity that is hers. "I had a number of letters from that dear Mrs. Hill, and once in awhile Mr. Mason added a few lines. Don't think I'm silly, but I was flattered to hear from such a busy man."

"I don't think you silly, dear," I replied gently.

"You know I haven't many friends," Irma Warren went on with no thought of making herself more desirable by points as desired. "And when a man of affairs and a fine old lady and a splendid young woman like you all start us if you wanted to be friends, I can't help being so happy. I hope I'm not too eager—to respond. I don't—here you by assuring to be so ready to be friends do I?" I wouldn't want to seem overanxious and—sort of push you away."

"Don't you think Mr. Mason is wonderful, Miss Hill?" he broke in, as if she were the motive. It looks as if I'm half mad enough to love Loren. You know Miss Harrison I'm not a thought, but person. I just sort of drift along not seeing the chances there are in this world to do lovely things, and then I meet some one who does think of them and—it makes me ashamed. Did you ever see anyone more kind and sensible than Mr. Mason?"

"He's all of that." I replied heartily, delighted that I could give him this meed of praise so unhesitatingly. He's just proved it by starting off for the Nest west on a mission that wouldn't concern him at all if it weren't for his friendship and loyalty to my husband."

"Oh, yes, that's what I came to see you about," stammered Irma, smiling at her own words and flashing her white teeth from her generous mouth. "I mean, Mr. Mason left a note explaining that he was away on a mission for you and that I should ask you for the explanation."

"I don't just understand what I am to explain," I said, a little puzzled to account for Tom's boasting of his loyalty. This at least I'd thought beneath him.

An explanation of why he didn't keep his word to me I guess," confided Irma. I mean why he wasn't at the station after telling me to telegraph. You see I came in ahead of Uncle Loren to open the house and Mr. Mason found that out from a letter of mine to Mrs Hill. Then he didn't come—and I suppose he thought I'd be hurt if I understand why—"

"You telegraphed to Tom Mason to meet you—telegraphed at his request—I understand that, dear. And he wasn't there because he'd gone off on his mission for my husband and me." I recapitulated in a sort of daze. and then an exclamation was wrung from my astonishment: "He is a loyal friend—they don't come more so"

Irma's ingenuous face crimsoned and she gave a little purring laugh of satisfaction in the back of her throat as she cried:

"Then you really think he was sorry not to wait to see me?"

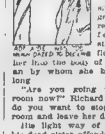
RICH GIRL, POOR GIRL

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

ADELAIDE was too much dazed to decline Richard Hollingsbury's proffered assistance. Nor when he drew her hand through his arm did she raise any protest.



Her one desire was to get away and rest. She felt as if strength had been taken from her limbs by the touch of the ill worn arm by whom she had knelt so long

"Are you going up to your room now?" Richard asked. "Or do you want to stop in Patty's room and leave her duds there?"

His light way of speaking of his dead sister offended her taste

"I will stop and get my own wrapper," she replied. "You may leave me at Miss Patricia's door."

He bid her to in a sister's room, and when she entered the dark and apartment stepped in with her. Here, to her horror, he put his arms about her.

"Poor little thing," he whispered, his lips close to her ear.

But, when she drew away from him, he did not detain her. "Forgive me, dear," he murmured. "For the moment I forgot."

Then, before she could speak, she heard him close the door behind him, leaving her alone.

She turned off the light, her heart beating violently. She was tired and was shocked by what Richard had just done. She was still dazed by the strain of the past hour. She would put on her own wrapper and go up to her room.

Slipping out of the silk negligee, she returned it to its hanger; then, catching up her own bathrobe from the chair on which she had left it, she put it on, switched off the light and started toward the door.

But, as her hand touched the knob, it was turned from the other side and Richard Hollingsbury entered. Before she could speak, he had closed the door behind him

"Listen!" he exclaimed, and his voice was hoarse and unsteady

"I have something to say to you! I did not mean to say it yet, but when I went out there into the hall. I saw Cutler outside my mother's door, looking in this direction. He was waiting for you!"

His was not!" she declared, her limbs trembling under her. "And if he had been, it was only to give me some directions, or to ask me some question."

"Yes!" The ejaculation was wrathful. "I undoubtedly he did want to ask you some questions—as to when he could see you again —or something of that kind."

A NEW SERIAL

He caught her by the arm and held her tight. The odor of his whiskey-laden breath was hot against her cheek She was sad denly afraid of him

"Let me go!" she exclaimed "Turn on that light!"

"Darling!" He threw his arms about her. "Don't be afraid of me. "You must know how good I would be to you if you would let me. I have tried to show you how much I cared for you. Kiss me, Addie!"

How to Make Perfect Strawberry Jam in 10 Minutes

New Certo Process Astonishes Housewives

Never Fails, Requires Only One Minute's Boiling, Retains all the Color and Flavor and Makes More Jam from Same Amount of Fruit

Strawberries are now plentiful at a low price, sugar is cheap and housewives are putting up strawberry jam as never before. Best of all, the brand new and never failing Certo process for making Jams and Jellies has eliminated every reason why any housewife should hesitate to make such a delicious conserve. Anyone can now make perfect strawberry Jam in 10 minutes, at a very low cost, with all the flavor and color of the fruit retained.

Crush well in single layers about 2 quarts ripe berries, using wooden masher, crushing each berry and discarding all green parts. Add juice of 1 lemon. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries, including lemon juice, into large kettle. Add 7½ level cups (3½ lbs.) sugar and mix well. Stir hard and constantly and bring to a vigorous boil over the hottest fire. Boil hard for one full minute and continue stirring. Remove from fire and add ½ bottle (scant half cup) CERTO, stirring it in well. From the time the jam is taken off the fire allow to stand 5 minutes only, by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime skim, and stir occasionally to cool slightly. Then pour quickly. Use this same recipe with raspberries, blackberries, dewberries and loganberries.

Important: Best way to seal Jams and Jellies in open glasses. Cover while hot with thin coat hot paraffin. Next day add tablespoonful hot paraffin to seal cracks around edge formed by shrinkage in cooling.

The former guess work and worry of making Jam or Jelly is now past. The Certo Process is endorsed by government authorities and cooking experts; it insures perfect results with every batch. It is also very economical, requiring only one minute's boiling and thereby makes two-thirds more Jam or Jelly than the old method. It also makes all kinds of Jam or Jelly, some you have never tasted before, like pineapple and rhubarb Jelly, or combinations like strawberry and pineapple, etc. Many housewives with no little pride are exhibiting the new flavors and better qualities of Jams and Jellies made with Certo.

Certo is absolutely pure—contains no gelatine or preservative. Housewives have received it with open arms because it is so certain, so economical, so simple, and so useful. They are recommending it to all their friends. Get a bottle of Certo with Certo Book of Recipes containing the above and nearly 100 other recipes, from your grocer or druggist at once. Extra copies sent free if you write to the Pectin Sales Company, Inc., 612 East Avenue, Rochester, N. Y. Try Certo right away with fresh fruit like strawberry or pineapple. Then you will see all your preserving the new and modern way—the easy, economical and better Certo Process. Fine keeping qualities.

FINANCE —AND— BUSINESS

By B. C. Forbes

The agreement reached for the handling of Mexico's foreign debt, thus paving the way for recognition by the United States Government, is a financial and business event of the greatest moment. The prospects are that trade between the two countries will very greatly expand. Mexicans could profitably use large quantities of American manufactures of various kinds, and our business leaders are determined to develop this potential market to the limit in order to find an outlet for surplus productive capacity. Mexicans will now find it easier to raise capital to facilitate purchases from us.

• • •

Although last month's exports decreased $10,000,000 and imports increased $37,800,000 over the previous month, the probabilities are that our foreign trade will shortly pick up. The principal factors explaining the decline of the German national loan negotiations, but in the highest circles the feeling is that both Germany and France will now be more disposed to remove obstacles to a loan floatation. There is at least a prospect that events will move fairly rapidly and that by April the proposed German loan will become feasible. In that event not only would exchanges be greatly helped, but very wide scope be opened for much freer buying of American commodities and manufactures.

• • •

Meanwhile, new loans periodically are being floated in this country for various foreign countries, and it can be taken for granted that a goodly part of the money thus raised is destined to buying for American products. In view of the continued superabundance of idle funds and the low interest rates ruling in this country, further lending to foreigners can be looked for, thus strengthening the ability of the borrowers to make purchases here.

• • •

The business trend at home continues in the right direction, despite special obstacles and uncertainties at the moment. These include the protracted coal strike, which cannot fail to become more and more of a retarding influence unless settled shortly; the rising threats of railroad workers to strike following announcements of wage cuts for one group of workers after another; the growing bitterness over tariff developments; the uneasiness in financial circles over bonus tactics at Washington; increasing doubts as to the effects of the coming Fall elections, and, latterly, rather sharp downward fluctuations in the stock market.

Stocks Strong in New York with Leaders at New Highs: Money Again at 2¾%

MEXICAN PETE MOVES UP FOR 11½ POINTS

The New York market was feverishly excited in trading because of further sensational dealings in Mexican Petroleum. That stock rose 11¾ points to 171¾ in quick spurt, or a total rise of 25¾ points since last week's close.

Studebaker resumed its advance soon after noon and pushed to a new high, up 6¾ points at 125¾. Only once since 1918 has this price been exceeded, when in 1919 Studebaker sold up to 151.

In last minute trading U. S. Steel crossed par at 100¾.

Fan-American made a new high, up 2⅜ at 73⅞.

Gains of around three points or more were shown in the last hour by Lackawanna, Maxwell A, Northern Pacific, Republic Steel, U. S. Rubber, Baldwin, Burns Bros. B., General Asphalt, Crucible and Great Northern preferred.

Gulf States Steel gained over five points. New Haven was up 1¾ so was Erie.

Shipping and Copper stocks advanced with the market in the late trading. Marland Oil responded to the announcement of the directors placing the stock on a permanent 4 per cent. basis.

RULING TONE STRONG.

There were many rumors afloat in connection with Mexican Petroleum's gyrations, but no explanations of a definite or authoritative character were available.

It was known that heavy short interest existed in the stock and the assumption in many quarters was that this element was being made to pay for its temerity.

The market as a whole, especially for other oils, independent steels and some equipments, was fairly strong, but all other developments were subordinated to the activity of Mexican Petroleum.

Trading started irregular, more up than down. A reaction came at the end of the first hour, followed by a further exhibition of strength.

Monday's rally of one to two points were scored by Crucible, Lackawanna, Midvale, Vanadium, Baldwin Loco, Republic, Corn Products, Coca Cola, Allied Chemicals, American Smelting, and Sears Roebuck.

CALL MONEY AT LOW.

Call money opened at 3 per cent., then dropped to 2¾ per cent., its record low for years.

Foreign exchanges showed more firmness.

On the New York curb there was a show of strength in many Standard Oil issues during the first half hour of trading, but later they were in supply and reacted.

The features of the market at that time was Standard Oil of New York, which moved up from 416 to 436.

MORE MERGERS IN SUGAR GROUP UNDER WAY

New York, June 20.—Two or three sugar mergers are being discussed, besides that of National Sugar Refining Company and Cuban-American Sugar Company.

E. Atkins & Co. have interests in a dozen or more Cuban sugar-producing properties, outside of Punta Alegre Sugar Company, with whose management they are identified.

Many economies can be secured by merging sugar properties, especially in competitive cane territory, it is contended. National City Bank is credited with an interest in twenty-five or thirty Cuban sugar estates as result of loans made by branches in Havana. Bank of Cuba is also largely interested in Cuban sugar production.

Wall St. Gossip

J. S. BACHE—"The general advance is likely to be held up for the balance of the month, but later on we look for a resumption of the upswing."

HALLE & STEIGLITZ—"It is still a time to be cautious with further good reactions warranting purchases."

BLOCK, MALONEY—"For a time we will see irregularity."

A. LIPPERT & CO.—"The foreign news is rather encouraging. The market as a whole has a firm undertone, and while I am inclined to believe it will be rather quiet for a little while, advantage should be taken of recessions to make purchases of securities."

PRINCE & WHITELY—"Were it not for the unsettled situation the rails today would be selling at prices more closely approaching the level to which their changed position entitles them.

W. J. WOLLMAN & CO.—"We look for a continuation of a trading market, with attractive opportunities for scale buying on dips in many of the active issues."

GOODBODY & CO.—"Would buy rails and let industrials alone."

NEW YORK COTTON—Which closed Monday at 29¼, is reported booked for marking up to 110, management proposing ultimately to offer stock at par in exchanges for minority holdings of subsidiary roads.

RAILROAD ISSUES appear to have a firm undertone, despite strike rumors, which are to be growing.

GULF STATES STEEL advance is attributed to story that earnings for year's second quarter, to be published shortly, will show further improvement. Shipments have been good.

NEWTON STEEL of Youngstown, O., has declared initial dividend of 1¾ per cent. on common. This company recently issued $750,000 bonds to add six mills to its present ten mills.

LINCOLN TRUST CO. has ratified merger with Mechanics & Metals National Bank under the name of Lincoln National Bank.

REPUBLIC RUBBER will wind up first half of the year without operating loss, profits at last three months having offset losses of the first three. Gross May receipts were 20 per cent. higher than April's.

AMERICAN BRAKE SHOE earnings for first half of 1922 are estimated at annual rate of over $8 a share on common. Company is now paying $4 annually.

MEXICAN PETROLEUM ownership, so far as holdings of Pan-American and Aguastein Petroleum are concerned, is said to have been unchanged this year. Shares are worrying over proving up of additional oil reserves.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY'S business is announced as best in road's history, partly due to northern movement of non-union coal.

PIGGLY-WIGGLY STORES, planning invasion of new fields, including Boston, announce May net profits as $23,000.

LIMA LOCOMOTIVE proposes a change in its common stock from $7,650,000, par $100, to 300,000 shares of no par value.

Can the Standard Oils Be Held Down?

With earnings beyond all measure of previous comparison—record of par value in a number of the group, and more to follow—gigantic stock bonuses impending and expansion of world wide magnitude—all these factors have vital bearing on the whole companies' stock movements.

As specialists of long standing in Standard Oils we feel privileged to discuss these facts in a specially prepared digest.

Red Coats Carry Wall Street's Millions

New York, June 20.—New York is trying something new tomorrow to foil its bandits who prey on Wall street messengers hastening through the financial district each day with vast sums in securities.

Abandoning the old theory that a messenger should look as inconspicuous and unphotographic as possible, several brokerage houses decided to dress their messengers in the brightest red coats and hitch five-pound portable safes around their waists.

And the safe has a trick to it, too. A small chain encircling the messenger's waist under the coat, escapes through a hole in the left side and is padlocked inside the safe, of whose combination the messenger is himself ignorant.

$27,600,000 FUND FOR N. Y. CENTRAL

Washington, June 20.—The New York Central Railroad in behalf of all of its subsidiary companies and its own system has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue and sell $27,600,000 in 5 per cent. equipment trust certificates.

The funds will be used to buy new rolling stock and the issue will be variously guaranteed as to payment of principal and interest by both the New York Central and the Michigan Central, the "Big Four," and others of its subsidiaries.

GIRL HAD PAINFUL TIMES

Mothers—Read This Letter and Statement Which Follows

Portland, Indiana.—"I was troubled with irregularity and constipation and would often have to lie down because of pains. One Sunday my aunt was visiting us and she and her girls took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got well, so mother said she guessed she would let me try it. It is doing me good and I praise it highly. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial."—Miss Nawton, R. R. 8, Portland, Indiana.

Mothers—You should carefully guard your daughter's health. Advise her of the danger which comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, or overworking. Do not let her overstudy.

If she complains of headaches, pains in back or lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, give her careful attention.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for your daughter to take, as it is especially adapted to relieve just such symptoms. Remember it contains nothing that can injure her.

Plays that Remain

COLONIAL THEATRE—"Sally" began the ninth week of its engagement at the Colonial Theatre last evening in the presence of another houseful of people drawn by the charm of this Ziegfeld wonder production of musical comedy, with Marilyn Miller and Leon Errol heading its great cast. The end of its Boston engagement is not far off.

GAYETY THEATRE—Barney Gerard's "Follies of the Day" was presented again yesterday at the Gayety Theatre, beginning the sixth big week of a sensationally successful run. A Boston girl, Miss Zoe North, is making her debut as soubrette. She gave an excellent performance and proved herself very capable as a singer, dancer and comedienne.

Pop Program

The following numbers will be played by the Symphony Orchestra at the Pop Concert in Symphony Hall tonight, under the leadership of Agide Jacchia:

Coronation March from "The Prophet," Meyerbeer; overture to "Sakuntala," Goldmark; waltz, "Artists' Life," Strauss; fantasia, "Cavalleria Rusticana," Mascagni; from the suite, "Peer Gynt," Grieg: a, Morning Mood, b, In the Hall of the Mountain King; prelude, Rachmaninov; Spanish dance, "Panaderos," Glazounov; overture to "Tannhauser," Wagner; selection, "The Last Waltz," J. Strauss; Volga Boatsmen's song, arranged by Agide Jacchia; Bacchanals from "Samson and Delilah," Saint-Saens.

GORDONS CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE, Cambridge, was crowded yesterday by audiences which keenly enjoyed the presentation of Gordon's "Follies of Cambridge," a bitesque that has been hailed by critics everywhere as Norma Talmadge's greatest achievement. Another feature of great interest was a radio concert, with every spoken word and every note of music clearly audible to everyone in the theatre.

Other Theatres

ORPHEUM THEATRE— Loew's Orpheum Theatre yesterday offered a bill of extraordinary merit. The feature photoplay was "The Black Bag," starring Herbert Rawlinson. The production is a stimulating drama of mystery, romance and thrills transferred from the famous novel by Louis Joseph Vance. The vaudeville was headed by "Toyland Frolics," a jovial melodious, comedy and dance festival, with a quartet of superlative artists.

LOEW'S STATE—One could hardly find fault with the merit of the program offered at Loew's State Theatre yesterday. The bill, as usual, presented two photoplays of multiple reels, each containing elements of popular appeal. "Over the Border," with Betty Compson and Tom Moore, two popular favorites, was the headline production. The story deals with the love of Sergeant Flaherty of the Royal Mounted for Jan, winsome daughter of a bootlegging tavern-keeper. The companion photoplay was Bert Lytell in "Sherlock Brown."

MODERN and BEACON—A new James Oliver Curwood story, "The Broken Silence," and a comedy by Rupert Hughes, "The Wall Flower," furnished the two first run photoplays that form the bill at the Modern and Beacon Theatres this week. The far Northwest, where the great outdoors reigns with and the primitive traits of humans rule, is a favored locale of Mr. Curwood for his stories. In his latest picture he places a stirring drama of hot hates, strong loves and hair-trigger adventure. The story centres around the love of a member of the Royal Northwestern Mounted Police for a woman accused of murder.

GORDON'S OLYMPIC—Vaudeville and motion pictures lovers had a double treat at Gordon's Olympia Theatre yesterday, when Montague Glass, famous humorous author, appeared as the headline performer, with a crackajack monologian, and other vaudeville program. Among the other good vaudeville numbers were Francesca Kennedy, a vivacious, pretty little comedienne, in a remarkable singing act, and the Parisian Trio in a surprising sketch entitled, "Moving Inn."

SCOLLAY SQUARE OLYMPIA—A rollicking, frolicking sketch was presented by Eddie Kane and Joe Herman as the headline act on the vaudeville program at Gordon's Scollay Square Olympia Theatre. It was entitled "The Midnight Sons," and it furnished delightful comedy. Several other excellent vaudeville treats included Herman and Shirley in a novelty, "The Mysterious Stranger"; Black and Zolmar in "Songs and Stories"; Wilson and Keppla, "The Wizards of the Wood on shoes," in whirlwind dance novelties.

GORDON'S STRAND—Mae Murray has again shown the possibilities of the dramatic, rapidly moving and highly dramatic brand of picture play in her Metro release "Fascination," presented by Robert Z. Leonard, which opened yesterday at Gordon's Strand, Upham's Corner, the famous star has a picture even more vital and vivid than her former screen successes. "Fascination" is a story of experiences when she becomes fascinated by a handsome young toreador. Her plight leads to many thrilling complications.

NATIONAL THEATRE—The bill for the National Theatre, which seems to have instilled new life in its patronage, is one to please crowds that visit it daily, includes for today Nazimova in "Camille," with Valentino, and H. B. Warner's "One Hour Before Dawn"; tomorrow, "Thunderclap," and Shirley Mason in "Queenie"; Thursday, Bert Lytell in "The Isle Rich"; Corinne Griffith in "Received Payment," and Sam Cohen's amateurs; Friday, Herbert Rawlinson in "The Millionaire," and Viannola Corliss," and on Saturday vaudeville, has a clever novelty "When We Were Twenty-One."

NORUMBEGA PARK—The evolution of the modern dance, from the stately gavotte to the rhythmic, syncopated dance of today, as delineated by Danny Duggan and Anna Pierce, is one of the most interesting features of the current vaudeville at Norumbega Park. Other acts on the bill include the singing, dancing and nonsense of Maurice & Moore; some startling head and hand balancing by the Franklin Brothers and a musical number by Frank Corbett & Company. The feature film is "Changing of the Northwest," in which Eugene O'Brien is the star. Mack Lunette's serial slide is given twice daily as a free attraction.

GIGANTIC SHOW PRODUCED IN FIREWORKS

"Scrapping the Navy," the gigantic fireworks dramatic spectacle which is being built for the International Pyrotechnic Contest, may in New York, was suggested by the disarmament conference and it will be shown in every American city beginning at Braves Field, on July 12 and 13.

The largest scenic production ever made, it will cover nearly four hundred feet across the entire field of Braves Field, showing the open ocean with fleets of warships moving about.

More than $50,000 will be spent in the production alone, while the display of fireworks which will accompany the spectacle and be part of it will cost each night about $10,000.

John Serpico, president of the International Pyrotechnic Co., was in Boston yesterday studying the lay of the land at Braves Field.

The magnitude of the show can be surmised by the fact that it will take twenty cars loads of fireworks operators and stage hands to handle it.

BOSTON THEATRE—At the Boston Theatre this week Dustin Farnum's latest picture, "Strange Idols," a serious drama, the intensity of which is lightened by some lively scenes in a New York cabaret. Jack LaVigne, singing comedian of vaudeville, has a clever novelty monologue full of real humor.

Patriotism In Peace

President Lowell's Standard Would Make Bloody Sacrifice for Internal Freedom Unnecessary

President Lowell of Harvard, in his baccalaureate sermon, urges Harvard graduates to be as willing to sacrifice in the time of peace for the public good, as in war.

It is well for our college presidents and all our intellectual leaders to insist upon the continuance of war's level of patriotism and it may be quite possible in time for us to maintain it. But in these days it is difficult for us to do much more than to try.

It is difficult to know always what the line of patriotism is in times of peace, and worst of all our peace patriotism calls upon that kind of a 2 o'clock-in-the-morning courage, which Napoleon said was so rare at any time—a courage not stimulated by fife and drum, or by the cheers of comrades or the certainty of approval and reward. It is a lonely courage which may never be known or credited.

Worse still, patriotism in time of peace often involves casualties which hurt worse than bullets or shell, and a sacrifice the maker alone knows, and for which he receives no credit and much blame and often contempt from his associates, and which involves the sacrifice often in his own family, which they do not understand or appreciate.

Those, of course, refer to sacrifices of leaders which are often made necessary by the selfish indifferences of the everyday man who will not attend to his political duties, who will not keep himself informed, who will not attend to his elections, who will not take the trouble to learn if possible who is the best man, who will not study the issues and vote wisely on the questions. This kind of misgovernment by the multitude often brings the country into a situation which requires nearly as much bloodless sacrifice as an oppressed nation requires the sacrificing blood for its freedom.

President Lowell's standard of patriotism would make the bloody sacrifices for internal freedom and justice unnecessary.

Constructive Labor Leader

It is interesting to note that there was a conference of labor leaders in Boston to organize a big corporation to deal with Russian textiles.

It surely cannot be those labor leaders who have been spending most of their idle time trying to look like conservatives by denouncing the Russian Revolution.

The fact that Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers is among them indicates that they are not that class of leaders. Mr. Hillman is one of America's greatest, most constructive and orderly labor leaders. If he and his associates can work out a constructive program with Russia which will bring us trade, we hope he tries hard.

Boston Proud of Her Beans

The Kiwanis Club have left for their Toronto Convention, carrying with them a huge 160-pound bean pot to be used to advertise Boston for next year's convention. They are carrying also to Canada's fine city 200 baby bean pots.

It is a good advertisement. Boston is proud of her baked beans. There are none better anywhere. It is a food rich in strength and in economy.

Where Lies the Blame

The sad accident at the railroad crossing Sunday, in which four young men lost their lives, indicates that something ought to be done to reduce the possibilities of these accidents.

It is impossible now to entirely assess the blame. But the fault lies somewhere.

A Prince Is Coming

Forgetful Lord Chancellor, etc.

Copyright, 1922, Star Company.

Sigismund Hohenzollern, son of Prince Henry, whom many Americans saw here, and nephew of the former Kaiser, will be the first Hohenzollern to migrate from Europe and start the family in this new world.

Prince Sigismund will go to Guatemala, taking his wife and boy to live on a ranch. He may grow coffee, invest in chicle or grow up with the country in other ways.

It is a long journey from the cold little Prussian castle, where the Hohenzollerns were money-lenders and land absorbers years before America was discovered, to the ranch in favor of Guatemala.

Sigismund, son of the healthiest Hohenzollern, may be doing useful work in Guatemala long after the other Hohenzollerns shall cease to be discussed in Germany.

Lord Birkenhead, Lord Chancellor of England, says "the British Empire asks help from nobody, will not ask any help, didn't ask any in the late war."

He thinks, however, it is about time for the United States to come in and do its duty.

That statement has a familiar sound, dating back to 1914. People in this country were under the impression that England HAD asked for help to the tune of five thousand millions of dollars, and GOT it, and, incidentally, still HAS it.

However, not all Englishmen are quite so forgetful.

Clothing manufacturers are fighting the prohibitive duty of thirty-three cents a pound on wool. Such a tax would encourage the raising of sheep. But it would be necessary also to have some heavy tax on dogs, which now make sheep-raising practically impossible where dogs are numerous.

Sheep would keep down weeds, clean up pastures, improve farms, diminish hay fever, increase and cheapen the meat supply. And mutton is far better than beef for all except men that do the hardest physical labor.

Lenin is to rest for six months in a German sanitarium. It is his brain and nervous system that need the rest. Brain work, free from anxiety and nerve strain, can be carried without injury to almost any point if sleep be not neglected. But strain on the nerves or on that mysterious source of energy that supplies the nerves with their power is the trouble with Lenin.

Daylight Saving

Editor Boston American:

I miss the daylight articles in your paper. It is so easy to have big ideas about things you don't know anything about. If you got up at 7, work a short da , it is a good law and gives you a long time for amusements. But if you must get up at 4 by the clock it is a bad law, as it leis a farmer work a longer day than he should. W. COLLIE.

The Busy Rich

Editor Boston American:

In your issue dated June 15 I read first the headline "Woman Describes What Hell Really Is." I claim most of our rich men and women are not as idle as it would seem, or undergoing any hell, as friend woman claims, and if readers will just give our job rich a close inspection she will find most of them quite busy at real work, some behind the pen as authors, some keenly, studiously turning over the branches of science, improving inventions and developing agriculture. I will admit money does it, but money must be handled and it takes a good man to handle it and do it right.

Chances in Colombia

Editor Boston American:

The suggestion in your paper that young men go to Colombia came to my notice, and having been a resident in that country for many years I have had occasions to admire and respect the qualifications of Senor Pedro Nel* Ospina. I have always found him ready and willing to do everything possible to assist and encourage American enterprises in Colombia.

His present invitation to come to his country and get rich is no idle boast, as I have been connected with some of the most successful enterprises of his country (gold mining).

I sincerely hope that our people will take advantage of his most liberal offer.

Harvard's Veteran Waiter

Editor Boston American:

I noticed in the Boston American a headline "Harvar. Denies Pension to Aged Waiter," with the picture of Mr. Ja. es Henry ("General") Banks, veteran waiter at Harvard for ty-seven years.

I take the liberty in sa ng that it would have given a higher prestige to the good old name of Harvard College if the authorities had not denied the pension to that veteran waiter, a - 'etter, study the painful subject of the Jewish problem at the u versity. I refer you to the letter with the headline "Fellowship" printed in the Boston American of June 9, signed Samuel Bernard. As he says, he was ready to give his life for America in "God's own country," fighting for "God's own country." American institutions which stand for liberty, the equality of all men, regardless of nationality or creed.

JOSEPH H. GOLDSTEIN,

Voting by Mail

Editor Boston American:

The recent spurt of interest in "elections by mail" may have its origin in the success in most States of "Absent Voting" by mail, in spite of its obstructive formula. But its real impetus is found in two very divergent sources: (1) The desire of women's parties to find a system to supersede the uninviting polling "place," which is keeping two-thirds of the women at home; (2) exasperated "wets" casting about for a feasible medium for a national referendum on the liquor question.

The mail system would make voting a pleasant, home affair, with no loss of work, independent of weather, while it would cut election costs in half. By so attractive a method every one would be eager to vote, and with the motto, "Voting should be a pleasure, not a task," it is hoped to coax to the ballot every male and female citizen of the Republic. Thus it contains, more effectively indeed than compulsory voting, the "overwhelming" theory, namely, that if all the eligibles (half of whom are not even registered) could be induced to vote the great total would bury not only evil candidates and measures, but all possible frauds.

LOOK OUT FOR NUMBER ONE BY ALL MEANS

By Dr. Charles Fleischer.

BY all means, look out for Number One.

But do not let your human love end in self-love. For there is possible a fine balancing of self-regard and concern for others which is the very essence of the science and the art of living.

Just where to put the emphasis and how strongly, that constitutes the pretty quarrel (to call it such) between schools of philosophy and varieties of religion.

Speaking broadly, the orient and the occident are divided in this regard. The oriental ideal, as represented here by the Hebraic-Christian cult, places the accent on others, on society.

Thou shalt love thy fellow man. Do unto others as you wish others to do unto you. Love one another, etc., etc.

The spirit of the West, which has not yet been only superficially orientalized after even nineteen hundred years of Christianity, is perfectly represented in the colloquial cynicism,

There are several causes for this frank self-regard. And all these causes go back to the primal instinct of self-preservation.

As unmoral children of nature, still fairly close to our barbaric beginnings, we really practice Look out for Number One, while we religiously profess (the Biblical doctrine of love of others.

Not that we are deliberately dishonest or even unconsciously hypocritical in making the finer professions, the while we, engage in the less beautiful practices of selfishness.

But the historic fact is to be remembered that we have relatively recently—less than two thousand years ago—emerged from barbarism.

And spiritual evolution is slow.

Besides, the modern life of intense competition tends to accentuate the self-assertion of individuals and groups and nations.

Hence, the type of economic life which is business means each for himself and the devil take the hindmost. And, as more than 90 per cent. sooner or later fall in business, the devil has a considerable company of the hindmost.

Hence, also, the kind of competition among the nations which also ends periodically and unescapably in war.

This dog-eat-dog life, which results from the prevalent custom of looking out for Number One, is obviously not the ultimate destiny of the race which is struggling to become divinely human.

That way lies madness and the suicide of mankind.

Since we wish to live, we must learn to love.

So look out for Number One if you will, but include gradually the rest of the billion and a half in your expanding spiral.

If This Is Your Birthday

You Are LUCKY

THOSE are practical minded people born this day, and shrewd in all their dealings. They are noted for their keen foresight and the reckless courage with which they will carry these projects of their own devising. They are neither stubborn nor aloof from the advice of others, but they are self-reliant and willing to stand or fall by the accuracy of their own thought processes.

This is an extraordinarily uncertain day. Some business undertaken might be unexpectedly successful and others unusually disastrous. To be safe avoid arbitrating or completing enterprises.

A child born today will be generous and responsive and should have a splendid mind for mathematics.

Famous Persons Born This Day:

Benjamin H. Bristow—Secretary of the Treasury.

John M. Wilson—Architect and engineer.

Alexander Winton — Pioneer automobile manufacturer.

David J. Brewer—Jurist.

Helen M. Gould—Philanthropist.

DO YOU KEEP YOUR HANDS STILL?

Many a man has lost the position he might have had, and lost the chance he ought to have had, because he did not keep his hands still.

It is asserted by men who have the hiring of numbers of men that the man who cannot keep his hands still does not make a good executive.

The man whose fingers are constantly moving may be an energetic worker, but usually he is not successful in planning work for others.

Quite likely to do more with his hands and not enough with his head is the resulting opinion of those who study men.

He is too nervous to be a good planner.

You may find it interesting to watch your own hands for a bit.

If it is natural for you to keep moving most of the time, it would be well for you to make an effort at self-control.

The result of this physical discipline is bound to exert excellent effect on your mental character, and you may get in line for big things at. Try it.

Mr. Rourke before he returns will give the streets of the "Quaker City" and those belonging to old "Father Knickerbocker" the once over to see how the streets of the Hub may be improved.

DR. JOHN A. CECONI, city epidemiologist, who recently touched the record for Schick tests in one day, has gone one better in that he "tested" 314 children. This is some job for one physician to do in a day. Dr. Ceconi wants to get as many children "schicked" as he can before school closes.

REPRESENTATIVE WILLIAM I. HENNESSEY of the Meeting House Hill section of Dorchester has announced his candidacy for the office of Senator from the Seventh Suffolk District. "BILL" was seen in City Hall recently and said, "Looks like a clean sweep."

"DANNY" HEFFERNAN, who pilots SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONER THOMAS P. GLYNN around occasionally in an automobile, is considered one of the best chauffeurs in the city employ. They say he talks to his machine the same way the mounted policemen talk to their horses.

THEODORE A. GLYNN wishes it announced that the Tammany Club of Ward 18 is not as dead as some people think. The club will hold its annual "night before" as usual.

DR. BENJAMIN A. GRAVES of Dorchester, past grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias in Massachusetts, will soon start for California, with Mrs. Graves, where he will represent the "Knights," as one of the Supreme Representatives of the order in this State, at their national convention. Dr. Graves was recently elected to this honor by the unanimous choice of every lodge in the old Bay State.

Boston will receive this week NELSON P. LEWIS of New York city. Mr. Lewis is said to be the best equipped city planning expert in America. He will become general consultant to the City Planning Board and at the finish of his stay it is expected that he will have outlined a plausible and constructive proposition whereby Boston's congested streets and thoroughfares may be improved upon.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON SCIENTIFIC DECEPTION

By Garrett P. Serviss,

"I am gathering all your articles on astronomy and am here with submitting a couple of problems for discussion:

"FIRST—If the earth is farthest away from the sun in Summer, why does the sun go behind clock time 10 minutes 8 seconds from May 14 to July 6?

"SECOND—On parallax and refraction, as it affects rising and setting of sun, moon, etc., what amount in degrees (vertically) is refraction at horizon? Does atmospheric refraction vary with weather conditions?"—L. G. J., Argyle, Minn.

THE difference between clock time and true solar or sundial time is due to a combination of two causes; (1) the eccentricity of the earth's orbit, whereby the earth travels faster when near the sun and slower when farther away, and (2) the obliquity of the ecliptse, whereby the sun in its apparent eastern motion in the ecliptic appears alternately ahead of and behind its mean place.

You seem to be taking account only of the first of these causes. Operated, the sun and the clock and the sun would be together both at perihelion (beginning of January), and at aphelion (beginning of July), while at the beginning of April the sun would be eight minutes slow by the clock, and at the beginning of October eight minutes fast.

On the other hand, if the obliquity of the ecliptic alone operated, the clock would be together at both the equinoxes and the solstices (March 21, June 22, September 23 and December 22), while the sun would be about ten minutes slow early in February and August, and ten minutes fast early in May and November.

But putting the two things together we get the actual state of affairs, by which the sun and the clock are together April 15, June 14, September 1 and December 24. From December 24 until April 15 the sun is slow by the clock, reaching a maximum of 14 minutes 32 seconds February 11; from April 15 to June 14 the sun is fast by the clock, reaching a maximum of 3 minutes 56 seconds May 14; from June 14 to September 1 the sun is again slow by the clock, reaching a maximum of 6 minutes 12 seconds July 26, and from September 1 to December 24 the sun is once more fast by the clock, reaching a maximum of 16 minutes 18 seconds November 2.

There is a source of confusion which can be avoided by remembering that when the true sun is ahead in right ascension of the mean sun, or fictitious sun, which the clocks follow, it is further east, and consequently must come to the meridian later than the fictitious sun; in other words, the sun is then slow by clock time.

(2) The effects of parallax and refraction are exactly contrary as applied to the apparent position of a heavenly body. The parallax tends to throw the body lower, i. e., further from the zenith of the observer, while the refraction tends to lift the body from the horizon and toward the zenith. Both attain their maximum effect when the body is near the horizon.

But the parallax varies inversely with the distance of the body from the earth. For the moon it is relatively large, amounting at the horizon to about fifty-seven minutes of arc, while for the sun in the same position it is less than nine seconds of arc, too slight for the unaided eye to perceive.

Travelers Expect the Pullman Porter to Answer in a Minute All Night Questions

There's really only one kind of hard work in this world, and a Pullman Porter's job is all three of them.

He makes twelve or fourteen beds every night and never gets a chance to lie down in one of them.

The average tourist asks more darn fool questions than your wife's lawyer.

The porter is supposed to know the name of every little town when some of them are so small that the stations are made out of tin to keep the woodpeckers from eating them.

One guy from the country was such a rube he asked the porter how far it was between each mile post.

People expect the porter to answer questions in a minute that they've been all night thinking up.

They ask the porter where they are and if they're not there when they will be.

But a lot of travelers don't start asking the porter questions until they get into bed. They can think of more of them while they're lying in their berth.

Then when they decide on a lot of things they want to know, they wait until the porter turns in before they begin ringing for him.

One woman woke the porter up to ask him if he was asleep yet.

He told her he was so she said she wouldn't disturb him.

But Luther Burbank has nothing on Pullman porters. The only thing they do all day long is plant their feet in the aisle and raise windows.

One old lady asked the porter if he went out much at night.

She probably figured he went to a picture show after he finished making up the berths.

Every porter has to go to a training school before he is put on a train. They have to spend six weeks in school getting used to being called "George."

One porter said he wished he'd been a Chinaman because he liked the name "John" much better.

The average porter doesn't care what you call him as long as you "Say it with silver."

No matter how unreasonable a passenger may be they always remember the porter at the end of the trip. Some of them give him a dime and others aren't quite as generous.
